‘Move Up Launch Date,’ Astronaut Schirra Asks

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Walter M. Schirra Jr., America's most widely traveled space pilot, says he came back from his "textbook flight" six times around the world with one suggestion for the next U.S. space venture: Just move up its launching date.

He came back from that flight reluctantly, said the 39-year-old Navy commander.

"I would like to have gone for 12 more (orbits)," he said.

Schirra also told newsmen at a nationally televised news conference Sunday that at one point in his 9-hour, 13-minute flight he completely cut himself off from ground control.

To conserve the power supply of his Sigma 7 spacecraft, he said, he threw a switch cutting off the electrical system which would have allowed ground control stations to bring him out of orbit in an emergency.

"From the beginning," he said, "I wanted to turn off the armed squib (control box), which means that it is my capsule and no one can bring me back until I put the switch back."

He left it off until Christopher Kraft, Project Mercury flight director, told him: "I think you have proved our point, old buddy."

As he told the story of Wednesday's flight, Schirra made 9 hours and 13 minutes in the weightless world of space sound like a drive to the corner drug store.

"I had no problems, no uneasiness, no queasiness," said Schirra. "I had no fatigue. I was ready to continue through one day."

He had no moments of apprehension, "Not one."

Schirra's flight was the longest flown by an American astronaut, though a short journey by comparison to the 64- and 48-orbit flights of the Soviet cosmonauts, Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich. It was a link between the three-orbit flights of John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter and one-day, 18-orbit mission planned for early next year, possibly in late February or early March.

The flight began at 7:15 a.m. Wednesday at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and ended at 4:28 p.m. 275 miles northeast of Midway Island in the Pacific. Schirra was picked up by the carrier Kearsarge, and taken to Hawaii where he was placed on a plane which arrived in Houston shortly after midnight Saturday.

Sunday this city—the new home of the Manned Spacecraft Center—turned out to give the astronaut a friendly welcome. Police estimated 300,000 citizens applauded Schirra as the motorcade wound slowly through the city to the campus of Rice University.

City Boy Hurt When Bicycle, Auto Collide

Cleveland Woman Shaken But Unhurt In Another Mishap

An 8-year-old bicyclist was injured and an Akron woman was shaken but apparently unhurt in two of the five weekend traffic accidents investigated by East Liverpool police.

Dale E. James, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. James, 225 W. 2nd St., suffered an abrasion of the right elbow Sunday at 4:48 p. m. in a collision at Center Alley and East Alley that involved his bicycle and a 1955 two-door sedan driven by Earl E. Rhodes, 60, of 210 Jefferson St., police reported.

Rhodes told police he was going east in Center Alley when the boy on the bicycle came downhill in East Alley and ran into the left front wheel of his car as he came to a halt. The boy said he saw the auto and attempted to halt, but the bicycle slid into the auto's wheel.

The boy was taken to City Hospital by his father, police said. Patrolman L. E. Richard investigated.

Mrs. Maye Hanna, 41, of Cleveland was examined at City Hospital after a two-car mishap on Dresden Ave. Saturday at 2:19 p. m., police said.

Mrs. Hanna was a passenger in a 1956 two-door sedan driven by her husband, William J. Hanna, 42, which was struck from the rear by a 1962 sedan operated by Raymond Norris, 48, of Sharon, officers said.

Hanna told police he was in a line of traffic halted on Dresden Ave. to allow contractor's trucks to drive off the new California Hollow freeway. He said Norris, approaching from the rear, failed to halt and hit his auto in the rear. Norris told police he was unable to halt in time.

The crash damaged the rear of the Hanna auto and the front of the Norris car, police said.

A Glenmoor man was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol as an aftermath of a crash Sunday at 8:25 p. m. in the 1000 block of Dresden Ave. that damaged a fire hydrant and a U. S. mailbox, police said.

Dana Willard Brooks, 54, of Smith St. was headed north in a 1958 model auto when the crash

Cool Trend Due After Sunny, Mild Weekend

A cooling trend was developing in the East Liverpool area after a sunny and mild weekend in which the rain forecast for Sunday held off until early today.

Temperatures soared to the mid-70's under sunny skies yesterday afternoon, luring many to the countryside to view the autumn hues. The Stratton Dam reported a high of 76 in the afternoon after a heavy fog that lasted most of the forenoon.

The rain came with a thunderstorm about 4 a. m. today and the dam said there was 0.27 inch of precipitation in the brief storm that lasted about an hour.

The low this morning was 60 downtown and 62 at the dam and today's high will range between 62 and 68, with tonight's low 50 to 53.

Study Slated By Court On School Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to take a further look at the whole question of prayers and Bible reading in public schools.

It announced it will review: —A decision by a three-judge federal court in Philadelphia that a Pennsylvania law requiring Bible reading in public schools violates the federal Constitution.

—A decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals, upholding a Baltimore school board regulation calling for a daily opening exercise of Bible reading and recitation of The Lord's Prayer.

In its last term, the high court ruled unconstitutional a prayer which New York State authorities had directed be used in public schools.

The court held that this official prayer breached the Constitution's provision for separation of state and religion.

In the Pennsylvania case to be reviewed in this term, the special three-judge Philadelphia federal court declared that Pennsylvania "has seen fit to breach the wall between church and state" by its Bible-reading statute.

The state's attorney general, the Pennsylvania superintendent of public instruction, and the Abington Township School Board in suburban Philadelphia, appealed to the high tribunal to reverse the decision. The appeal said that to ban Bible reading in morning opening exercises in schools would be to ignore the traditions of this nation.

Edward L. Schempp, member of a Unitarian church in the Germantown section of Philadelphia, began the litigation. His children attended Abington Township schools. He contended the state law was unconstitutional even though the Legislature in 1959 provided pupils should be excused from the Bible-reading period on written request from their parents.

Returns To Texas

Gen. Walker Scheduled For Mental Examination

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who denies he's guilty of federal charges evolving from riots at the University of Mississippi, will undergo psychiatric examination here this week.

The former Army officer, charged with inciting an insurrection and seditious conspiracy, flew home to Dallas Sunday and was greeted by about 200 flag-waving supporters.

He was released late Saturday from the U.S. Medical Center in Springfield, Mo., on $50,000 bond, posted by his family.

Release came only after he agreed to submit to a psychiatric examination.

Walker was jovial and talkative—to the point his lawyers would allow.

Amid signs of "Welcome home Gen. Walker," he told his supporters, "I'm happy to be back in Texas. The air is clear, bright and wonderful."

"It was supposed to be a short trip to Mississippi, but it was extended to Missouri—much to my surprise."

Action Slated By Congress On Fund Bills

1 Measure May Be Key To Adjourning After Long Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—A supplemental money measure appeared to be the key to adjournment as Congress today headed into what may be the final week of its longest continuous session since 1951.

With many members of both houses already home campaigning for the Nov. 6 elections, these were some of the tasks facing those who remained in Washington:

Senate action on the foreign aid appropriation.

Half a dozen appropriations measures, including a $500-million supplemental bill on which adjournment may hinge.

The Senate is expected to act today on the compromise foreign aid appropriation which the House passed Saturday 171-108. The measure now calls for $3,928,900,000 in foreign aid spending, $1,032,400,000 less than President Kennedy originally asked.

Much attention was focused on the $500-million supplemental appropriation which two Senate Democrats—Richard B. Russell of Georgia and George A. Smathers of Florida—were trying to delay for different reasons.

Russell was trying to bring pressure on the House while Smathers eyed the money measure as possible leverage while he jockeyed with the President over a pension bill.

Russell blocked attempts to hustle the measure onto the Senate floor last week and threatened to insist on compliance with a rule requiring three days to elapse before the Senate can act on such a bill.

He hopes to force the House to reverse its decision on a $5-billion

Meredith Resumes Classes Protected By Federal Officers

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—An answer to a big federal government question could come today when James H. Meredith goes back to class at the University of Mississippi.

This will start the second week in the classroom for the 29-year-old Negro whose entry into the 114-year-old university touched off riots that left two men dead and 200 injured.

Only one Justice Department officer accompanied Meredith Sunday when the bulk of the student body returned from the weekend break. But there were also two federal marshals and an Army jeep with four soldiers following.

The reception he receives could indicate the temper on the campus and this is the problem confronting the federal government.

Justice Department officials plan to talk to student leaders to enlist their help for student acceptance of Meredith. The federal men contend they are "not asking them to like it, but we're hoping there will be some respected students" who can silence the catcalls and jeering.

A scattering of boos greeted Meredith when he came out of the university cafeteria Sunday night. About 130 persons waited outside for him to leave.

Two unidentified white students shook hands with Meredith as he walked toward his apartment in Baxter Hall, a few strides from the cafeteria.

Federal military forces remained in Oxford, snuggled in the Court To Air Tax 'Puzzle' For City Man

A "puzzle" posed last week over what constitutes filing of a city income tax return is scheduled for airing Tuesday at hearing before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

The defendant is Samuel Everhart Jr., 1829 St. Clair Ave., accused of "failing, neglecting and refusing" to file an estimate of his 1962 earnings before the deadline May 15.

Everhart, hailed before the judge Wednesday on an affidavit signed by Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson, told the court he had filed the estimate. Queried by the judge, the tax official said the records of his office show no estimate was filed.

He said the tax ordinance provides payment of 25 per cent must accompany an estimate when it is filed. He said Everhart may have prepared a form, but did not file it with the required payment.

The judge said the case poses the question whether the city has a right to refuse a proffered estimate if it is not accompanied by the 25 per cent payment. He continued Everhart's case until tomorrow at 9 a. m.

Everhart also is accused of "refusing to submit himself for examination by the supervisor of the income tax department concerning income..." That case also

10,223 In City Qualified For Fall Balloting

Board Reports Gain Of 227 For Local Registration Lists

East Liverpool has 10,223 voters qualified for the Nov. 6 general election, an increase of 227 from the 9,996 listed on Jan. 1.

That report was issued today by Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, after the County Election Board's staff completed work late Saturday on compiling an alphabetical list of all electors, a follow-up on registration for the fall balloting that closed Sept. 26.

However, the total is down 231 from the 10,454 who were qualified for the November 1961 general election, O'Hanlon pointed out.

The city started the year with 9,996 registered electors after the board eliminated the names of 454 in its annual check for failure to vote at least once in the preceding two years. The names of a few others were removed because of death or moving outside the city.

In the latest registration totals, the First Ward was 2,363 qualified voters; the Second, 3,426; the Third, 1,914, and the Fourth, 2,550.

State law requires the Election Board to compile alphabetical precinct lists of all registered voters.

Cited For Old Ticket, Motorist Posts Bond

Ray A. Richardson of Lisbon St. is scheduled for a Municipal Court hearing Wednesday at 9 a. m. on a charge he failed to pay the penalty for a ticket for alleged overtime parking on W. 4th St. Aug. 20, 1960.

Richardson posted a $17.50 appearance bond after he was served Saturday morning with a warrant signed by "Meter Maid" Catherine Martin, police said.

The warrant was issued last Feb. 1. It lists only the lone violation. The affidavit on which the warrant is based alleges that Richardson also has failed to pay for four other parking tickets.

Court Rejects Mississippi On Meredith

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected today an appeal by the state of Mississippi contesting orders that resulted in enrollment of James Howard Meredith, a Negro, at the University of Mississippi.

Meredith, 29, enrolled Oct. 1 under military protection ordered by President Kennedy to end two days of rioting in the university area.

Meredith's admission to the previously all-white university came after Justice Hugo Black on Sept. 10 enjoined university officials from taking any step to block the Negro's enrollment.

Before Black acted, Atty. Gen. Joe T. Patterson of Mississippi had filed an appeal with the high tribunal. It asked review and reversal of a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans that Meredith had improperly been denied admission in May 1961, solely because of his race.

While the Circuit Court called for Meredith's admission, one of its members, Judge Ben F. Cameron of Meridian, Miss., issued a stay order to bar his enrollment.

Counsel for Meredith asked Black to vacate Cameron's order and this request was granted by the Supreme Court justice in his Sept. 10 ruling.

Black then said delay in admission of Meredith could only work "further injury" to him while immediate enforcement of court orders for his enrollment "can do no appreciable harm to the university or other respondents" (state officials).

Black made the prediction that "there is very little likelihood" that the Supreme Court would act on Atty. Gen. Patterson's appeal.

The court's order made no comment.

Kennedy Set For Another Political Trip

President Appeals For Party Help In Midwestern Swing

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy kept his political briefcase handy today after a whirlwind tour through four Midwestern states appealing to voters to send more Democrats to Congress.

Wednesday night he will be off again, to Baltimore for a political rally.

Friday and Saturday he swings through New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Kentucky. More schedules are being lined up. His politicking will keep him on the road every weekend until the Nov. 6 election.

Throughout his campaigning during the weekend in Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan and Minnesota, Kennedy's theme was the same: He wants to get the country moving again, but Republicans block him on some of his major efforts.

In St. Paul Saturday night the President put it this way: "This country has many pieces of unfinished business. Many of the things that we hoped to do are still not done, but we are trying to do them."

$2,000 Cash, Bonds Taken At Area Home

Sheriff deputies are investigating the theft Sunday of $2,000 in cash and bonds from the home of Melvin Martin of the Frischkorn Addition, on Route 39, west of Wellsville.

Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said Martin reported thieves forced open sliding doors on the patio to gain entrance and took $1,000 in cash and $1,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds from a safety box. The house was ransacked but nothing else was missing. The theft occurred between 11:30 a.m. and 9:20 p.m.

Albert Pepin of Campbell Rd., near Wellsville, reported a tool box and tools valued at $50 were taken from his garage sometime between Wednesday and Saturday.

1,113 Await Final Action On Freedom

Negotiations Seen Near End; Donovan Makes Sudden Trip

HAVANA (AP) — Release of 1,113 Cuban prisoners captured in the April 1961 invasion appeared imminent today. A negotiator for the families of the captives said it seemed that "all went well, thank God."

Apparently only a few formalities, such as the wording of the communique, remained to be settled before the men are set free and flown to the United States.

The optimistic impression came from Mrs. Berta Barreto de los Heros, Havana representative of the Cuban Families Committee. She refused to elaborate on her comment that all seemed well. She said she was pledged to silence during the final stage of the talks.

The likelihood of an impending break was strengthened by a quick trip from Havana to Miami by New York attorney James B. Donovan, negotiator for the families' committee. Speculation arose that Donovan, who flew back to Havana Sunday night, had arranged special transportation to Florida for the prisoners.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government asked $62 million for all prisoners taken in the Bay of Pigs invasion. About 60 have been freed. Donovan said when he left for Havana last month that he would offer Castro medicine and food in lieu of a cash ransom.

Mrs. Barreto said that Donovan was to meet Castro again, possibly today.

In a speech opening the Latin American University Games Sunday night, Deputy Prime Minister Raul Castro assailed U.S. policies and declared any invasion force would face annihilation if it set foot on Cuban soil.

Castro, who is Fidel's brother and also armed forces minister, called the Bay of Pigs prisoners a "herd of traitors" and added, "If their masters want to rescue them, let them pay the price that has been fixed."

Donovan, who negotiated the swap of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel last year, made his quick trip to

Boyd To Start City's Garage

$9,642 Contract On 2nd St. Project

The Boyd Lumber Co. of Glenmoor has received the green light to erect a new $9,642 garage for the incinerator department on city-owned property at E. 2nd St. and Cherry Alley, culmination of a contract awarded more than two and a half years ago by the administration of former Mayor Fred P. Lawrence.

Safety-Service Director Robert Owen confirmed today that the firm has been given the go-ahead for the project — a 40-x-84-foot metal-clad structure that will be used primarily for housing trash and garbage collection trucks.

Boyd's contract calls only for the building proper. Heating, plumbing and electrical wiring will have to be installed later.

Boyd Lumber, then located near Calcutta, was awarded the contract Dec. 31, 1959, last day the Lawrence administration was in office. Lawrence was succeeded the following day by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, who was beginning his first term.

Construction of the building had been discussed repeatedly by the administration and the 1960-61 Council and later with the current Council, which took office last Jan. 1. The discussion centered on the relative merits of is slated to be heard tomorrow. Wilkinson also commented today on another tax case heard Wednesday in which the defendant won dismissal on one of two charges.

Judge Chertoff dismissed a charge in which Nelson Clark, rear 1011 Locust St., was accused of failure to file an estimate of his 1962 income.

Wilkinson said the records in his office show that Clark paid his 1961 tax after he was served with a subpoena in connection with the alleged 1962 violation. But he still has not filed an estimate of 1962 income—the allegation on which the charge was based, Wilkinson said.

Wilkinson said he made the statement because of several comments directed at the tax office for "issuing a subpoena after a man has paid his tax." He said the record shows Clark paid his 1961 tax on Oct. 1, but he still has not filed an estimate of 1962 earnings.

"Nobody gets a subpoena after he has paid his tax," Wilkinson said. "We check the records carefully."

the E. 2nd St. site and another at the city's landfill dump in Bloomfield.

The question came to a head Sept. 10 when Boyd sent Council a letter asserting that the contract had been let more than two and a half years ago but construction never had gotten under way. He asked that the city proceed immediately with the construction or reimburse his company for its "time, trouble and expense."

The building was discussed again by Council at an extra caucus session Sept. 12, but no decision was reached. At that time, some of the councilmen asked Owen to begin the construction as soon as possible, using either site.

Today's announcement that the go-ahead has been given confirmed that the administration had settled on the E. 2nd St. site.

Owen told Council in the September meeting that water and gas service for heating would pose a problem if the city used the Bloomfield site.

There would have been the added expense of running a gas line to furnish heat and drilling a well or extending existing city lines to provide water, he pointed out. Truck travel time between the garage and the dump was another factor.

Councilmen told the director at that time they felt it was important for the incinerator department to have an adequate garage

GO JET-SMOOTH '63 CHEVROLET—IT'S EXCITING!

If all roads were superhighways, Chevrolet's remarkably smooth and silent ride might be just another luxury. But as most town and country roads will demonstrate, this is one Chevrolet advantage that's mighty easy to get excited about. (The way those four deep-coil springs put the kibosh on bumps, you'd almost think Chevrolet was working for the highway commission.) The new '63 Bel Airs, Biscaynes and Impalas are built to be equally easy going on upkeep. Brakes are self-adjusting. New Delcotron generator s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-s battery life. Even the rocker panels on the Body by Fisher are self-washing and ventilating to cut down on rust. Something's Wrong With Congress

By the time Congress winds up the tangled web of its work and adjourns, the American people are so mixed up about Washington they're ready for a rest.

If this is the way a deliberative body works in a republic, runs the popular reasoning, it's a wonder the United States survives.

Does this mean something's wrong with Congress? Does it mean something's wrong with state legislatures and city councils, which make the same impression? Is there something wrong with the way the American people are governing themselves? Does the United States survive in spite of Congress, as some Americans seem to believe?

The idea gains currency as a congressional session drags on and on and finally tails off in a cloud of critical appraisal. It becomes easier to believe as confusion is piled on confusion until it towers so high it blots out the dome of the Capitol. It picks up a following as compromises become enmeshed in compromises, amendments are tacked on in places they do not belong, differences are split to hairline distinctions and the headlines of newsworthy investigations blot out routine reports of the fine-grinding legislative mill.

ACTUALLY, nothing is wrong with Congress.

The trouble is failure to understand what Congress is supposed to do.

The United States needs to understand how it governs itself; it never has. Americans boast about their government and how it protects freedom, then criticize it for doing what they say it should do.

Ecumenical Is A Big Word

When Pope John XXIII announced last Christmas morning the first Roman Catholic ecumenical congress in nearly a century, sometime in 1962, hopes of religious unity were aroused.

The meeting at the Vatican this week, however, finds the hopes quieted and back where they were before Pope John made his announcement. No unity is in prospect, other than a possible step toward unity among Catholics. Vatican Council II, its formal title, will be concerned solely with internal affairs of the Roman Catholic Church.

This ecumenical council is in no sense a Roman Catholic counterpart of the ecumenical meetings of Protestant-Orthodox groups. This was the origin of the confusion about its purpose when it was announced last December.

It is a meeting of the Roman Catholic Church in its entirety, a calling in of the hierarchy from all parts of the world on command of the Pope. There have been 20 of these ecumenical councils beginning with the Council of Nicea in 325. The most recent council was held at the Vatican in 1869-70.

The reason some observers sense that unity among Catholics could be a possible motive for the council is the Pope's expressed wish for ending the 900-year-old schism between Rome and the Eastern Church. At least three times in recent years this wish has been referred to by Pope John. This indicates it could be one of the things he hopes to accomplish while

The Image Makers

Washington abounds in courageous men, many unknown and unsung. But it is tragically true that our government also is full of equivocators. With their clever skatings on the periphery of flabby principles, they symbolize a malaise.

They are image addicts — always looking first to see which pollsters' straws are blowing and always sliding smoothly just between the sharp edges of clashing principles.

It is not an overstatement to say that today, to a large degree, we have government by image. Image-making and image-retaining are decisive in determining policy. The question is not "What should I do?" It is "How do I look?"

To this extent, sweet, lush, out-and-out selfishness is the largest problem we face in our government, and if you can think of an older problem in the history of the world, name it.

Neither Democrats nor Republicans have a patent monopoly on this. It knows no party label. But it is mighty inopportune just now, and its abundance makes you wonder how long we can survive the merciless Soviet threat on any such basis. On the basis of government-by-image, the handicap to resolute government is well-nigh insurmountable.

In the glittering world of politics, the one thing image addicts fear is that their career will be a pilgrimage from the sawdust floor to the Aubusson carpet and back again.

The resulting selfishness, alibied by the excuse, "That's politics," stupefies and bewilders the simple hearts of others who see this power demonstrated without understanding it, who are touched by it without being able to believe it.

IT IS unjust to think of image addicts as bad men. They are not. Bad men are few. The image addicts simply justify their selfishness in their own eyes and generally succeed in doing so. The first attribute of truly selfish politicians is self-deception.

They work themselves into believing everything they do is for the good of the people. But their ambitions somehow reduce everything to a limiting factor: its effect on themselves.

Politics is their special business, and they

Congress as a deliberative body, protects the American people from arbitrary rule. It protects the minority from abuse by the majority.

It makes it impossible for one side to ride roughshod over the other. It puts the highest value on compromise. It is a guarantee against clashes between irreconcilable factions.

There is a tragic failure of Americans to understand why these things are important. They talk and act as if they thought something had gone wrong when differences are split in the framing of legislation and no one gets all of what he wants.

They are highly susceptible to people who shout that something must be wrong with Congress because it didn't do what they wanted it to do—and thus highly susceptible to the itch in this country for dangerous increases of executive authority.

NOTHING is wrong with Congress, except this:

It is losing touch with the people of the United States, who are finding it increasingly hard to understand how it works and what it has done.

It is like the Supreme Court and the federal judiciary, which also lack the public relations skill of the executive department. The White House always tells its side of every story. But who speaks for Congress and the courts?

Ignorance of the way a deliberative government controlled by a written Constitution works could be its undoing.

he is head of the Roman Catholic Church.

"Ecumenical" has many shades of meaning. In its application to the council convening next Thursday it means a "council convoked from an entire church." Any unity in its connotation would be Catholic unity. Whatever may happen ultimately with regard to Christian unity is not in the plans of the churchmen who will meet this week in the Vatican.

Ounce Of Prevention

Only a fireman or a person who has faced the terrifying outbreak of fire in his home or business knows fully how very important it is to eliminate conditions which cause flames and to know what to do if a blaze should occur.

Cigarettes, rubbish, flammable liquids or gases, electric wiring, heating systems — all pose serious threats to life and property, and no one responsible for the safety of family, friends or the general public has the right to be careless about them.

Fire prevention week is an annual reminder to check out homes for hazards — either by the householder or by visitation of firemen, offered by the departments in Chester and East Liverpool.

East Liverpool's fire loss in the past 15 years has been almost $1.5 million. In 1961 it amounted to $24,435 — a 50 per cent decline from the previous year.

Taking proper safeguards now will help protect each home and business, and avoid needless tragedy which looms wherever there are combustibles and carelessness.

By Henry J. Taylor

have what Voltaire called "the love of governing." They gradually reason that just so the people put them in control, the result justifies any means, because their control itself is in the best interests of the people.

Yet, again and again, their promises vanish as if never made. Then comes the next election and they promise the same things all over again.

Mercy on us! For false promises, for unattainable promises, for broken promises — these three things are the curse of men and nations.

THIS SPILLS over into our Soviet problem and our equivocation about Cuba. Take only one recent example. The mushmouthed and meaningless "America will do what it has to do" resolution about the Soviet lodgement in Cuba, passed in both the House and Senate, is a masterpiece illustrating the malaise.

The House and Senate resolution was concocted to save the equivocators from going out on a limb about Cuba. It allowed them to be all things to all people. This was, in fact, its shabby purpose. Russians are too tough to be handled like this.

The resolution, as written, was primarily a domestic public relations play, even though our great country stands imperiled by no effective action against the Soviet lodgement 90 miles from Florida.

It was designed, not for any discernible benefit against the enemy but merely to mount like a rocket, claim its headlines, and burst — leaving nothing behind it. Yet our survival is at stake against Khrushchev's thrust and in turning away from appeasement.

By this resolution's feebleness alone, by its transparent spinelessness and equivocation, it can only encourage Castro's bearded tyrants and their Russian masters rather than deter them.

We are going to fight Communist imperialism like that!

Men who have been elected to the Presidency of the U.S. before their 50th year were Theodore Roosevelt, U.S. Grant, Grover Cleveland, Franklin Pierce, James K. Polk, James Garfield and John F. Kennedy.

A New Chapter

U.S. Pressure Needed On Cuba

By Raymond Moley

It makes no sense to delay action toward the Soviet threat in Cuba on the ground that its capability there is merely for defense.

Technical equipment and personnel there probably are already able to realize many Communist objectives in this hemisphere. With command of radio and electronic mechanisms it is possible to conduct surveillance over our entire military operations.

With such equipment, our power to retaliate in case of war could be jammed in such a way as to paralyze our defense.

Cape Canaveral, one of the most vital spots in our establishment, is less than 400 miles from Cuba. Moreover, since a major purpose of the Soviet take-over is not merely to keep Castro in power but to extend this alien system into all of Latin America, powerful broadcasting equipment is able to deluge all our neighbors to the South with propaganda.

This might well be used to unify all Communist cells in those countries. It would also be possible from this base to train and infiltrate agents, subversives and saboteurs in great numbers into Latin America.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY assures us that the presence of Soviet forces in Cuba "does not constitute a serious threat." We are also expected to believe that a "doomed" Castro is "no longer feared in South America."

It is not Castro who is to be feared. It is the mighty power behind him. Weapons are weapons. The gun that defends can as easily attack. A launching pad or torpedo tube can ward off an attack or make the attack itself.

The waging of an offensive in modern times involves many features other than a marching army.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, plagued by public remarks of such Kennedy advisors as Chester Bowles, compounds the present confusion surrounding the Cuban question. In one breath he said "vigorous debate is to be desired"; in the next that the problem should "not break itself up into alleged partisan points of view."

He does admit however that "no satisfactory answer has yet been found and that the penetration of this hemisphere by Castro communism is something which cannot be accepted."

Is a "satisfactory" solution available? Anything we do may be distasteful. The cold war has been unpleasant for years. But it must be faced.

SHORT OF AN invasion directed by skilled military men rather than by civilians who have already proven themselves amateurs in such matters and failures in evaluating information properly, other courses are open. The paralyzing fear of conflict which numbs reason can be replaced by a firm resolve which accepts calculated risks — the "brinkmanship" of John Foster Dulles.

It is not at the moment necessary to declare a blockade in the formal manner described in classical international law. For according to George Grafton Wilson, formerly Professor of International Law at Harvard, the term "blockade" has been radically changed in the past century.

Nor in preventing further build-up in Cuba is anything like a formal declaration of war necessary. At any rate, first steps can be taken immediately. What must be done later can be decided according to developments.

We have at our disposal the means to compel NATO nations and others such as Liberia to prevent by official action the further traffic in their flag ships between the Soviet and Cuba. It is within our power to curtail foreign aid, to discriminate against maritime nations which are participating in such transportation. We can stop carrying our foreign aid, economic and military, in their ships.

Moreover the United States can prevent such ships as are used to supply Cuba from bunkering in ports in the Western Hemisphere. The main bunkering stations are Freeport in the Bahamas, certain U.S. ports, Venezuela and ports in Panama.

Pressure against the foreign owners of those ports and also official action regarding American ports will make it difficult if not impossible for ships bound to Cuba to return across the Atlantic.

Moreover, we can with our navy on the high seas and without a formal blockade stop the transportation of anything to other nations in Latin America from Cuba.

After these preliminary steps are taken it is time to consider more drastic moves. But these should be taken without further delay.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I wish to thank Mr. William Harris, Mr. William Christopher and Mr. Roger Hall for their effort in trying to sell the Edwin M. Knowles China Co. to the employees.

They were kind enough to give their time to come to a meeting where a lot of our employees were too busy doing nothing to attend.

Despite rumors about the possibility of selling the pottery, right from the start Mr. Harris showed me he meant business.

He told how much his and our property would decrease in value if a firm that size were to go out of business. He said he would not only hurt the 450 workers, but the communities around, since $100,000 in pay would be lost every two weeks.

Business people are going to suffer, people are going to lose homes and investments, and honest workers will not be able to pay their bills. Several people have left here already.

Let's face the facts. Some potteries may pick up a little business from Knowles, but you can bet that more than 60 per cent of the business will go out of the district.

The workers committee has considered a meeting with area business people and anybody interested in keeping the pottery going, but has been advised the Chamber of Commerce has indicated no help is available.

As a member of the committee, I want to thank the people who had the faith to believe that a few workers might swing the deal, and I think it could have been done if we had had a little more time.

Mr. Harris said company interests wanted to liquidate, and he would delay action until today on the move.

In closing I want to say that Mr. Harris has been a gentleman, and has tried to help us right from the start. He said his one regret was that we the people waited too long before believing and seeing the facts.

Mariner Mystery

By Stuart H. Loory

Radio Interruption Causes Brief Alarm

The mystery of the morning Mariner II lost its voice:

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in La Canada, Calif., who built the $18 million Venus-bound spaceship, still wonder why, shortly after 5 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 8, in Johannesburg, South Africa Mariner lost contact with earth for three minutes.

Technicians following the craft in the recording room at the Johannesburg deep space tracking station suddenly noticed their magnetic recording tapes were picking up no signals. They sounded an alarm that traveled around the world, back to La Canada.

The alarm was genuine. A mute Mariner passing by Venus on Dec. 14 but unable to tell earth of its findings would have meant little more than the abortive Russian Venus probe of February 1961 in which the radios also went dead.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists were counting on Mariner to strip away the ageless shroud in which Venus keeps fundamental secrets from the probing eyes that are the earthman's telescopes.

NASA ALSO counted on the probe to restore some of the prestige to a space program badly shaken by comparison with Soviet man in space flights of record-setting endurance.

All this was at stake during those three minutes. Then, as quickly as the faces turned long in sadness, they brightened up:

Mariner II came back on the air. Once again, the tape recorders at Johannesburg began recording information on the engineering performance of the spaceship as well as on the force of solar winds, the extent of interplanetary magnetic fields, the number of meteorites encountered and the density of high-energy atomic particles in space.

Immediately, the men began analysis of the tapes to find out, if they could, what had gone wrong. They learned that for some reason, the directional (dish-shaped) antenna on the spacecraft which had been pointed at earth, turned away.

When this happened, the tapes revealed, Mariner II automatically shut off its four scientific experiments (as it was under instructions to do in such circumstances) and turned on its attitude control system to try to reacquire earth.

With gyroscopes providing reference, the spacecraft rolled around its axis until the antenna once again locked onto earth. Then the gyroscopes shut down, the experiments turned back on and Mariner continued on its way.

What jolted the spaceship out of attitude? The scientists found no evidence of a faulty mechanism of solar winds did not show any increase at the time.

Their best guess (but they have no way of proving the belief) is that a meteorite whacked into the spacecraft and knocked it for a loop.

THE SPACECRAFT has a meteorite impact counter on board, but that would only register hits in the instrument. That recorded one hit in the first week of the flight and has not signaled any activity since.

So the mystery of what went wrong is likely never to be solved. In the meantime, Mariner II continues to function perfectly. Last Monday night at 8, the spacecraft, launched 33 days before, was 5,388,256 miles from earth and traveling toward its Venusian rendezvous at 6,634 miles an hour.

The spacecraft has been gaining speed ever since Sept. 18, when it reached its slowest speed (6,448.3 miles an hour). The speed increase results from the fact that Mariner is falling closer and closer to the sun and accelerating as it falls.

Scientists at JPL's three deep space tracking stations — Goldstone, Calif., and Woomera, Australia, as well as Johannesburg — keep a 24-hour watch on the craft and recording 30,000 feet (almost six miles) of information magnetic tape each day. The information comes in at the rate of 8.3 bits each second.

All of which means scientists will be busy a long time after Mariner II passes out of sight with the job of analyzing its data.

Remnants Of Revolution

By Roland Huntford

HELSINKI

Forty aged monks, formerly of the Russian Orthodox Church, are living out their last days in a dilapidated monastery in southeast Finland surrounded by treasures of their faith.

The monks, originally 300 strong, formerly inhabited the 1,000-year-old monastery of Valamo on Lake Ladoga. This territory, which used to belong to Finland, is today part of Russian Karelia.

After the Russian Revolution of 1917, and the proclamation of Finland as an independent sovereign state, the Finnish branch of the Orthodox Church transferred its allegiance from Moscow to the Patriarch of Constantinople.

Following the 1939 Soviet-Finnish war, Finland ceded the Karelian isthmus, and with it, Valamo to the Russians. Today the Russians have turned the ancient monastery into a holiday camp.

The monks rowed many of their treasures across Lake Ladoga into Finland, including the two-ton bell from the old monastery. There have been few new entrants since the 1917 Revolution, and now almost all the monks are over 70. Many are over 90. The youngest is Father Mefodias, aged 50, and on him most of the work falls.

In its heyday, the monastery in Russia was a large self-supporting colony with several churches and many large farms. The monks worked the land, fished, and practiced their arts and crafts. Their painted ikons achieved fame.

Today the monks live in a remote Finnish farmhouse surrounded by a thick forest of pine trees, with the wooden outhouses unpainted and in poor repair. The fruit trees are unpruned and the grass grows high.

An air of neglect hangs heavy over the place, although some of the monks still continue their traditional ikon-painting, basket weaving and the baking of unleavened bread for the faithful.

The monks are cared for by a few old Karelian lay sisters. The community share the traditional meal with any pilgrim who arrives; black rye bread, soup and dry barley porridge with rancid butter.

The visitor is given a small cell equipped only with a bed and chair, but decorated with the beautifully painted ikons. Services are held twice a day, at 5:30 in the morning and afternoon, and the visitor is expected to attend these.

Few visitors are permitted to see their treasures of Holy Russia; gold and silver chalices and plates, pile upon pile of gold-embroidered, gem-encrusted vestments and altar cloths, and ikons of many centuries and styles.

These are stored in an attic guarded by the old men in turn, but the roof is fractured in several places so that the sun and rain pour in to bleach and soak the raiments.

Generously helped by the Finnish government which donated money and land to the monks, the community is able to survive through the sale of lumber from the forests which is cut by contractors, and gifts from the small Orthodox community in Finland who number 70,000.

The abbot (or igumen) as he is called in the Orthodox Church, bears the name of Nestor and is deeply venerated. Extremely old, he is very frail and bowed. Twice a day he blesses the bread, this is almost the only activity he can undertake.

As the monks sit at three long, wooden tables for their meals, members of the community take turns at reading from the Bible. Discipline has been relaxed out of consideration for the age of the monks. They occasionally make a trip to the neighboring town of Varkaus to visit the doctor or agent, but this is their only link with the outside world, which holds little interest for them.

The monks are spiritually "displaced persons," for in Finland, which is 95 per cent Lutheran, there is little interest in Orthodox monasticism. In the end, Uusi Valamo will be no more than a few crosses in an obscure churchyard by a Finnish lake commemorating the monastery that became a refuge.

40 Attend All-Day Meeting For Lisbon Women's Guild

The Women's Guild of St. Jacob's United Church of Christ at Lisbon held their all-day meeting Thursday with 40 present.

Mrs. Carrie Entriken of Alliance, who at 94 is one of the oldest members of the church, was present.

The forenoon was spent at quilting and rolling cancer bandages. Mrs. Hubert Jones and Mrs. H. W. Arter were hostesses for the coverdinner at noon.

Sings In Devotions

Mrs. Herbert Weaver was devotion leader and sang.

The afternoon session began with Mrs. Herbert Weaver in charge of worship. She sang.

Mrs. Clifford Farmer, president, presided for business when final plans were made for the Youngstown Area Workshop to be held at St. Jacob's Church Oct. 17.

Mrs. Edgar Sommers reminded that the Lisbon Council of Church Women will hold an all-day sewing session at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church Friday.

An offering was taken for supplies for the sewing kits for World Community Day Nov. 2 at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mission Topic Used

"New Era In Missions" was the subject of the program presented by Mrs. Clifford Aiken, concerning help in mission work at home and abroad.

Next meeting is Nov. 1 at the church.

"Negro Spiritual Music" was the program of the Lisbon Music Study Group when it met with Mrs. Donald Lewis of E. Lincoln Way Friday evening.

Background of the music was presented by Miss Camille Firestone. Spirituals were sung by a quartet, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Bruce Workman, Mrs. Theodore Greener and Mrs. Edward Noid.

Vocal Selections Given

Mrs. John Trunick sang, Mrs. Ray Mariatt and Mrs. George Nulf gave a duet and piano arrangements were played by Mrs. W. C. Carpenter.

Shaw's essay on music was read by Mrs. Clayton Hunter and the choral group sang.

Next meeting is Nov. 2, with Mrs. Dallas Hepburn of E. High St.

Gamma Nu Sorority of Epsilon Sigma Alpha met Thursday evening with Mrs. Charles Yoo of the Fairfield Rd.

Mrs. Harold Kepner, president, presided for business and names were drawn for the gift exchange at the annual Christmas party.

"Motivation In Art" was the program theme with Mrs. Ray Weaver and Mrs. Robert Passage in charge and members participated in a still-life grouping.

The educational meeting will be held Nov. 1 with Mrs. O. Dale Mason of the Columbiana Rd.

Optimistic Club Meets

Mrs. Lodge Riddle of W. Lincoln Way entertained the Optimistic Club Friday evening.

Three tables of duplicate bridge were in play.

Mrs. Helen O'Brien of E. Lincoln Way will receive the club Oct. 19.

Mrs. Robert Dorrance of E. Chestnut St. visited over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mason of Pittsburgh and attended the Ice Capades. The Dorrances and Masons are summer neighbors at Guilford Lake.

It will be at 8 p. m. in Steubenville High School Auditorium.

Walter L. Myers Jr., dual chairman of the Jefferson County Republican Central and Executive Committees, said Taft is scheduled for several other appearances in Jefferson County during the afternoon. He will address students of the College of Steubenville and appear at the $25 a plate fund - raising dinner, sponsored by the Carrigg for Congress Committee. John J. Carrigg is the Republican candidate for Congress from Ohio's 18th Congressional District.

Tickets for the dinner, which will be held at 6 p. m. at the Fort Steuben Hotel, may be obtained from Republican Headquarters at 149 N. 5th St., Steubenville.

Store Meat Prices Expected To Ease As Wholesale Dips

The Mahoning County Co-operative Extension Service said today wholesale prices on meats, especially pork, eased during the past week with the result that retail prices will follow suit this week. This decrease will effect primarily the more choice cuts, such as pork chops and loin roasts.

Beef prices are steady with little change indicated this week. Features include chuck roasts and ground beef. Most beef coming to market at this time is U.S. Choice.

Beef grades are determined by examination of the side of beef for color of meat (cherry red is preferable), marbling of fat within the lean meat, conformation (shape) of the animal, and the amount of fat covering on the animal.

Actually most people seem to prefer this U.S. Choice grade in preference to the more fat U.S. Choice or less fat U.S. Good. These are the three grades normally found in retail stores.

Market forecasts indicate coming weeks will experience a very slowly declining beef price until early winter, with prices remaining above last year's level. The supply of beef is very close to last year's level, with indications that people are again eating more beef in 1962. This continues a trend that has been in progress since World War II. Beef replaced pork as the nation's favorite in the early 1950's.

Economically priced meats this week are cured pork cuts, poultry and fish. Ham, picnic and bacon prices did not rise as sharply last month as did fresh pork, so less change downward will be true this week and next in retail markets.

Poultry fryers and Beltsville turkeys are in good supply and are again market features. Many varieties of seafood are priced with the more economical meats as well as the fresh lake fish, such as perch.

Fresh fruits featured this week are apples, grapes, pears and bananas. Popular apple varieties are McIntosh (all purpose), Jonathan (fresh and pies) and Red Delicious (fresh). A few Concord grapes still are on the market, but these are being rapidly replaced by Western Tokays, Ribbles and Thompson Seedless. The Red Flame Tokays are generally the one in season and most economical in price.

Bartlett pear is the variety most widely available. This fruit ripens rapidly at room temperature if a little green when purchased.

Apple cider is a fruit product very much in season. Most cider is a blend of several varieties of apples to get the desired sweetness and taste. Local growers report that the best quality cider of the season so far is now available.

Economical choices for fresh vegetables are Eastern potatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, carrots, celery and eggplant. Sweet potato season is just getting under way with an extraordinarily good quality crop available. Prices are in the 7-to-10-cent per pound range. This price will work downward until Thanksgiving time. Tomatoes and peppers are also priced quite reasonable for this time of year. Sweet corn supplies are light and prices higher.

Canned peaches, cherries, and pears are in excellent supply and there is also a better than average supply of tomato products.

Milk supplies are steady and this is also true of prices. Dairy products featured are cheddar and cottage cheese.

West Virginia Lists 5 Dead

By The Associated Press
Four accidents, including a West Virginia Turnpike wreck that took two lives, accounted for five weekend traffic deaths in West Virginia and boosted the state's toll for the year to 328, compared with 271 at this time last year.

The latest victim was Walter Waugh, 78, of Charleston, who was struck and killed by a car at a downtown intersection. It was Charleston's 10th traffic fatality of the year.

The turnpike crash, about 25 miles south of Charleston, occurred Friday evening. Ira C. Harless, a Fort Meade, Md., soldier, and Miss Norlyn Anita Sowers of Baltimore were killed.

They were in a car that hit a truck near Memorial Tunnel.

Police said a hit-and-run driver apparently struck and killed Monroe Thomas, whose body was found Saturday evening along U.S. 60 at Culloden. Thomas lived near that Cabell County community.

George Washington Cook, 75, of Huntington, died Saturday night of injuries received when he was hit by a car Friday evening.

Record Crowd Views Game At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — The largest crowd at a football game in the school's history, some 1,400, attended the Salineville High School homecoming game Saturday afternoon with Santon Local.

Approximately 500 attended a smorgasbord dinner sponsored by the Band Boosters and more than 100 couples attended the annual homecoming dance.

Scout Group To Meet

LISBON — A review of district objectives and the 10 tests of successful scouting will feature the Shawnee Boy Scout District committee meeting at the Old Stone House at Camp McKinley Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Norman Wilhelm of New Waterford, district chairman, will preside.

Lisbon Fund Drive Opened

LISBON — "When you serve as a solicitor, board member, chairman or help the Community Chest in any capacity you are doing God's work," Atty. Francis Lang told 60 persons at the kickoff buffet smorgasbord Sunday evening in the Lincoln School, launching the fund campaign.

Cornell Monda, drive chairman, presided and introduced members of the Board of Directors and new solicitors.

The Rev. William Brown told of the agencies to benefit from the drive for $7,999. Participating agencies include:

Girl Scouts, $937; Boy Scouts, $2,300; Junior Baseball Association, $700; Salem City Hospital and its School of Practical Nursing, $1,387; Y-Teens, $125; Youth Association, $600; Salvation Army, $900; Salem Central Clinic, $500; operating expenses, $250, and an indigent fund of $300, added this year.

Atty. Donald Lewis, co-chairman, gave a number of points for solicitors to review.

Rev. Brown gave the invocation and Bennett Taylor, board member, introduced Atty. Lang of East Liverpool.

Women of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. George's Catholic Church served the dinner, which was paid for by the Firestone and Farmers Banks.

Dayton Man Charged With Double Slaying

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Police said first-degree murder charges will be filed today against Joseph Jones, 35, in the fatal beating of Percy Anthony, about 44, and his wife, Lucy, about 47.

The bodies of the couple were found early Saturday at their home here where Jones lived.

appropriation for the Department of Agriculture. The House last week refused to accept about $25 million worth of research projects tacked onto the bill by the Senate, including a $1.6-million peanut marketing research station in Russell's home state—Georgia.

A bill permitting self-employed persons to set up tax exempt pensions within limits is now before Kennedy. There has been speculation he might veto it. It would become law at midnight Wednesday if he does not act on it before then and both houses are still in session.

A public works authorization measure was ready for passage by both houses this week. The future of a similar bill authorizing work on rivers, harbors and flood control was hazy.

Oilman, 46, Killed

DILLON, Mont. (AP)—Tom V. Slick, 46, of San Antonio, Tex., oilman and philanthropist, was killed Saturday with his pilot in the crash of their twin-engine plane. Slick and the pilot, Shelley E. Shudderth, of Dallas was reported en route to Salt Lake City after a hunting trip in Canada. Slick was a key figure in the development of Texstar Corp. and a director of Slick Airways and Dresser Industries.

Chicago Firm Buys Loblaw

East Liverpool's two Loblaw super-markets and 113 others in Ohio and Pennsylvania have been sold to the National Tea Co. of Chicago, which will continue to operate the chain under the Loblaw name.

The sale, largely a stock transaction, will give National Tea its first outlets in Pennsylvania, and will boost the firm from the fifth to the fourth largest food chain in the country.

The change in ownership will not affect any store operations, a National Tea spokesman said.

National Tea, doing almost a billion dollars worth of business a year, has more than 25,000 employees in 897 retail outlets in the Midwest. Four of the outlets are in Ohio.

Loblaw came to Pittsburgh in 1956, and by 1959, with the purchase of the Star Markets, Inc., had a 40-store chain. Loblaw also bought out the Century chain in the Youngstown - Western Pennsylvania area about two years ago.

George C. Metcalf, Loblaw board chairman, said the sale of the units for an announced $23,000,000, would enable the company to accelerate its plans to develop and strengthen its chain of 172 supermarkets in New York State and northern Pennsylvania.

I LOST TWO DAY'S PAY

LAST YEAR, I took two days off to solicit Pledges for COMMUNITY FUND. I wasn't alone . . . about 500 of us made the rounds.

THIS YEAR, I can't afford to lose 2-days pay. Could you? Fortunately, someone came up with a better way, the COMPANY-FAMILY PLAN . . . where we work. There will be no more coaxing. It's up to your Boss to explain how the new plan works . . . that since we all benefit, we all should GIVE, as company-families should.

REMEMBER THIS. There are no Federal, State or Municipal funds to help our Tri-State COMMUNITY FUND. Also, that over 95c of every dollar you give is spent right here at home; doesn't go out of town.

4 In Attack Get Hearing

The probation periods of two Midland Heights boys were continued and two others were reprimanded at a hearing Friday at Beaver in connection with an attack on an Ohioville youth Aug. 20 on Route 168 near Midland Heights.

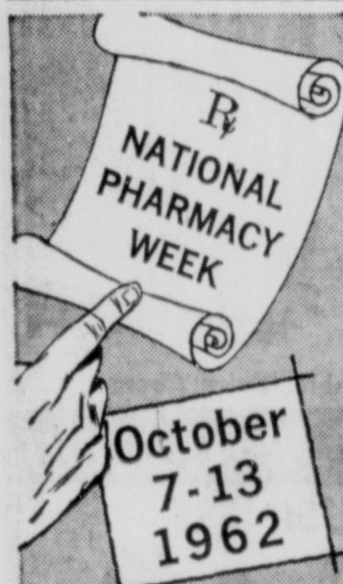

The hearing, continued from Sept. 7, was held before W. L. Ambrose, Beaver County chief probation and juvenile officer.

Ambrose said evidence against the four was not conclusive and that identification was not made. He said however a statement from one named the other three but the boy claimed the statement was taken under fear and duress.

He said two of the boys had no previous records and were dismissed with a reprimand. He said the other two were wards of the court and their probation was continued until their 18th birthdays. All four are about 17. Judge Robert McCreary had set up the probation periods for the two which expired as of December 1961.

The boy who was beaten is from Beaver. Midland police assisted Ohioville police in the case.

Kennedy

"And we need members of the House and Senate who are committed, not merely to voting 'aye' and 'nay,' but participating in the legislative process, which makes it possible for this country to go ahead."

Then he winds up, as he did Saturday night, with a pitch like this:

"That is why I come here tonight, although I am not a candidate for office, asking your help on issue after issue, which will make it possible to educate your children, to find jobs for our citizens, to provide security for our older people, and to make this country the greatest country in the world, which it is, and which it must be if this world and the country are going to remain free."

This argument presents some difficulties:

1. Kennedy rarely mentions that he already has a pretty good majority of Democrats in the House and Senate. The House margin is 262 to 174, the Senate 64 to 36. He gets around this by ignoring defections and saying too many issues are settled, one way or another, by a couple of votes.

2. He passes over the fact that some Republicans support him on key issues more consistently than some Democrats.

3. Most important, though, is this: a president, no matter how great his prestige, has always had trouble transferring it to congressmen.

Kennedy is acutely aware of this. During the weekend he repeatedly pointed out that only once, during the heyday of the New Deal, in 1934, has the party in power gained seats in the off years when there is no presidential contest.

Kennedy's weekend went well until rain Sunday brought a halt to plans for a stop in St. Cloud, Minn. He addressed the rally by phone before flying back to Washington. He talked mostly about his administration's agriculture policies.

Throughout the trip crowds were good, though not always spectacular.

In the Midwest weekend campaigning has its hazards at this time of year—it's hard to buck Big Ten football.

Mrs. Cynthia Booth has established the Tigon Primate Research Center, a laboratory for the study of monkeys on a farm near Nairobi, Kenya.

CE Alumni Has Election

Mrs. Betty Bright, a member of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church of Wellsville, was elected president of the Columbiana County Christian Endeavor Alumni Saturday evening at the Calvary Methodist Church of East Liverpool. She succeeds Harold Risinger of East Liverpool.

Other officers include Randall Black of the Phillips Christian Church of Salem R. D., vice president; Mrs. Evelyn Ferguson of the St. Jacob's United Christian Church of Christ of Lisbon, secretary, and Mrs. John Rudeboch of the Winona Methodist Church in Hanover, treasurer.

Guest speaker was the Rev. William V. Ring, pastor of St. Jacob's church. Cecil Jeffrey, state CE secretary, also a guest, gave brief remarks.

Mrs. Wilma Thompson of the Labeled Christian Church of Steubenville announced that the Christian Endeavor Union adult alumni banquet will be held Oct. 20 at the Buckeye Hotel in Uhrichsville.

Business was conducted by Risinger, who presented several reports and announcements.

A song service preceded devotions which were conducted by Carl Rudeboch of Hanover, Ohio. Benediction was given by Rev. Rice.

The date and place of the next meeting will be announced.

Meanwhile, the Election Board today issued 17 civilian absentee ballots for the Nov. 6 voting—first day the "early" ballots were available.

The applications may be filed until 4 p.m. Nov. 1. The ballots must be back in the board's hands by noon on Nov. 2.

Truman Remark May Result In Libel Action

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman left Evansville Sunday with a libel and slander suit threatened against him for remarks he made about Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., at a Democratic rally Saturday night.

Truman departed from his speech text to charge that Capehart once asked him to reach a settlement with John L. Lewis in a postwar coal strike crisis to keep Capehart from losing $10,000 a day.

Capehart branded it a "fantastic lie" and added, "I will make Truman pay for that statement."

He said he was "amazed that a former president would make such a statement" and that he would file suit after the Nov. 6 election.

City Post Office To Discontinue Job Information

Information about federal employment opportunities will not be available at the East Liverpool Post Office after Dec. 1, the Chicago region office of the U. S. Civil Service Commission has notified Postmaster Samuel W. Brown.

J. A. Connor, director, said elimination of the East Liverpool office as a distribution point for employment information "is part of the continuing efforts on the part of the government to operate as efficiently and economically as possible."

Persons interested in securing such information after Dec. 1 must visit the Steubenville Post Office, he said.

Connor praised Brown and Lawrence Todd, who has served as a local secretary, for their efforts to acquaint residents with Civil Service opportunities.

occurred, police said. Patrolman Jack Stroble, who investigated, said Brooks was unable to give a statement explaining what happened. The front of his auto was damaged, officers said.

As Municipal Court is closed today, Brooks' hearing is set tentatively for Tuesday.

A hit-skip driver was blamed for damage to an imported station wagon Sunday afternoon while it was parked on Walnut St. 50 feet north of E. 5th St.

Miss Joyce A. Ingram, 16, of 531 Washington St., Newell, told police the left front fender of her vehicle was damaged around 5:30 p. m., by another auto that failed to halt.

A collision Sunday at 7:32 p. m. at Dresden Ave. and 6th St. damaged a 1955 sedan driven by George Jones, 16, of Wyoming Ave., Glenmoor, and a 1961 sedan operated by John Barcus, 43, of 2102 Ohio Ave., officers said.

There was damage to the right front fender and bumper of the Jones car and the right rear door, quarter panel and rocker panel of the Barcus auto, police said.

Corak Says No Notice Yet On Kennedy Visit

BEAVER — Eli Corak, Beaver County commissioner and county Democratic chairman, said no official notification has been received of a proposed visit by President John Kennedy to Beaver County.

There have been rumors that the president will include the county in a proposed tour. Corak said the county has not been notified of any visit and the public will be informed as soon as any information is available.

Wellsville Man Fined In Street Disturbance

A Wellsville man was fined a total of $75 and costs Saturday by Mayor William Daugherty on two charges stemming from a disturbance at 14th and Main Sts. Saturday at 12:20 a. m.

Ocie Cain, construction worker residing at the Hotel Wink, was fined $50 and costs for failure to obey an order of a police officer when placed under arrest and $25 and costs for disorderly conduct.

Cain apparently was involved in a scuffle with another man, authorities said.

In other hearings Saturday, Leslie Cunningham of Buckeye Ave. was fined $10 and costs for reckless operation. Two other men were fined for intoxication.

Irondale Church Circle To Convene Tuesday

The Margaret Poole Circle of the Irondale Methodist Church will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 with Mrs. Margaret Rowley instead of with Mrs. Jessie Rohall as previously planned.

Mrs. Angeline Sansone was called to Grove City Friday by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Antonia Nicoletto, who suffered a stroke.

Production Resumes At Kinsman Company

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Production was to resume on a full-time basis today at the Cleveland Brass Manufacturing Co. in Kinsman following settlement of a three-week strike.

Imburgia-Perkins Nuptial Held In Wellsville Church

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Peggy Perkins and Joseph C. Imburgia the morning of Sept. 22 at 10:30 o'clock in the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church of Wellsville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perkins of Irondale and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Imburgia of Chester Ave., Wellsville.

Fr. Gerald Curran, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with white gladiolus, mums, pompons, palms and ferns. Mrs. James O'Reilly was organist and she and her husband sang the Mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Florentine lace fashioned with a Basque bodice, scalloped Sabrina neckline outlined in seed pearls, and long, pointed sleeves.

The hemline of the bouffant skirt was edged in the same scalloped lace. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece of lace centered with a beaded gardenia. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid and tied with satin streamers.

Mrs. Joseph Prosko was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Mumaw, Mrs. Stanley Wickham, sister of the bride, and Miss Paula Ross, cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Patty Im-

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

burgia, niece of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid.

They wore moss green dresses styled with scoop necklines and bell-shaped skirts, and matching headpieces and shoes. They carried spray baskets of bronze pompons and yellow roses tied with two-tone streamers.

Miss Terry Cline and Miss Debbie Imburgia, nieces of the bride and bridegroom, were flower girls. Their baskets were filled with rose petals.

Frank Fusco was best man. Ushers were Vincent Imburgia, brother of the bridegroom; James Prince, his cousin, and Randy Perkins, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a blue floral print and the bridegroom's mother wore blue matte jersey. Matching accessories and white carnation corsages complemented their attire.

A dinner for the immediate families and bridal party was held at the 356 Club in Wellsville.

A reception for 300 was held in the evening at the Frischkorn Skating Rink. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake topped with wedding bells. A floral arrangement completed the setting.

Aides were Mrs. Keith Cline, Mrs. Floyd Workman, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Lewis Workman, Mrs. Vincent Imburgia and Mrs. Robert Lysle.

Out-of-town guests were from Cleveland, Youngstown, Canton, Steubenville and East Liverpool. The couple honeymooned in the Southern States.

The bride was graduated from Stanton Local High School and her husband from Wellsville High School.

Guest Of City Club

Aide In National BPW To Speak Here Sunday

"Behind the Communist Curtain" will be the subject of Mrs. Agnes Merritt as speaker for members and guests of the East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's Club at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Community Room of the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex.

Mrs. Merritt of Columbus, past president of the Ohio Federation of BPW Clubs and who has completed her second year as legislative chairman of the National BPW Federation, will discuss her recent tour of East and West Berlin, Russia, Poland, Finland and the Scandinavian countries.

Her tour followed attendance, as a National BPW representative, at the Congress of the International Federation of BPW Women held in August at Oslo, Norway. She will also discuss Communist infiltration in South American countries, of which she learned during her participation in the Seminar for Women of the Americas, held last November in San Juan, Puerto Rico. This seminar was sponsored jointly by the National Federation and the U.S. Department of State.

In addition to her BPW activities, Mrs. Merritt is a past president of the Ohio American Legion Auxiliary and has been the only dean of government of Buckeye Girls State for 17 years. In 1960, a Columbus newspaper selected her as the "Outstanding Club Woman of Columbus."

That same year, she was awarded the Freedom Foundations medal and certificate and in 1961, served on the Foundation's National Jury. Mrs. Merritt is also active in the Women's State Committee of Ohio for public welfare, health and education, and has served as its president. She is author of the book, "Ohio Government Digest."

MRS. AGNES MERRITT
She'll Discuss Communism.

In her professional life, Mrs. Merritt is a teacher of mathematics in Franklin Junior High School in Columbus. She received her bachelor's degree from Hunters College, graduating cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa, and her master's degree of science from Ohio State University. She is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teachers' sorority, and is active in the American Association of University Women.

The event is being arranged by the civic participation committee with Mrs. Nessie Dunlop chairman. Reservations for both members and guests must be made by Wednesday. Invitations have been sent to area BPW clubs and associated clubs of the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

All interested women may attend, but advance reservations will be necessary due to limited space.

Open House Set For Wellsville Golden Wedding

"Open house" for the golden wedding anniversary of Councilman and Mrs. Dwight S. MacLean, 800 Main St., Wellsville, will be held Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. William MacLean, of Hillcrest.

They were married Oct. 16, 1912, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hoop of Jackson, Ohio, by the Rev. Watson of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mrs. Laura Hoop Maine, a teacher in the Lakewood schools, was her sister's attendant and Raymond MacLean, now deceased, was his brother's best man.

They have two daughters, Mrs. Helen Aughenbaugh of Cherry Tree, Pa., and Mrs. Wade Carpenter of Nogales, Ariz., and two other sons, Jack MacLean of Columbus and Robert MacLean of Wellsville. There are 21 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mrs. MacLean came to Wellsville in 1910 to teach in the schools. Her husband at the time of his marriage was associated with his father, George MacLean, in the grocery business. He retired as custodian of the high school two years ago after serving 15 years. At present he is Second Ward councilman and previously served as a councilman. Both are members of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church.

Summitville Couple To Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark will observe their 25th wedding anniversary with open house Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m. at St. John's Hall at Summitville.

They were married Oct. 16, 1927 at St. Peter's Rectory in Canton by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John F. Bardon. Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. George Bryan.

Mrs. Clark is the former Agnes Kelley. They have two sons, Lloyd Clark, stationed with the Navy at Norfolk, Va., and James Clark at home, and two daughters, Misses Patricia and Rachel Clark, also at home.

Friends and relatives are invited. No formal invitations are being sent. The open house is being planned by their daughter, Patricia, and Mrs. Mary Clark and Mrs. Melba Nemeth.

FAR MORE CLOTHES are dried by

than any other kind.....

Because FLAMELESS ELECTRIC DRYERS save dollars... not pennies!

Flameless electric dryers are the overwhelming choice of modern housewives—and cost-conscious husbands. Electric dryers are cleaner than other kinds. More modern. Comfortably safe. So gentle to your clothes. Best of all, they save dollars, not pennies, because...

1. Their original cost is as much as $50 less than the price of other kinds of dryers. This saving alone would pay all operating costs for years.
2. Installation and maintenance cost less. There's only one connection; fewer working parts.
3. You save when you dry. Gentle electric drying action prolongs the life of expensive clothes.

Legion Bowling League Launched For County Units

LISBON—The Columbiana County American Legion Bowling League began its season Sunday at the Kaiser and the Ranch Lanes, with Columbiana Post 290 as host unit.

There were 12 men's teams and four women's representing seven county posts.

Officers for the 1962-1963 bowling season are George Ulrich, Post 56, Salem, president; Rodney Stull, Post 374, East Liverpool, secretary, and L. Olen Sanor, Post 574, North Georgetown, treasurer.

The league will bowl once a month. Next date is Nov. 4 at 2 p. m. at the Tri-State Lanes in Calcutta. Post 374 of East Liverpool will be host.

Columbiana County Legionnaires meanwhile will make their annual visit to Massillon State Hospital Wednesday, furnishing lunch, tobacco, cigarettes, candy and prizes for patients' games. Some 90 patients will be entertained and volunteers still are needed. Legionnaires will meet at the hospital administration building at 7:15 p. m.

The County Council will meet Friday at Salineville Post 442, according to Walter McCoy, public chairman.

Hookstown Seaman

Returns From Cruise

Seaman Ross A. Speer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Speer of Hookstown, spent the weekend with his parents.

He recently returned from a seven-month cruise in the Mediterranean aboard the Allagash, a tanker fueler. He is stationed at Newport, L. I.

Maj. Edna F. Hall of Ft. Knox, Ky., spent the weekend with her brother Leonard Hall, of Hookstown.

Auto Forced Off Highway

No one was injured seriously although one car was heavily damaged in three separate accidents investigated over the weekend by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Officers said a car driven by Bernard Wright, 41, of 653 Bradshaw Ave. was forced off Route 39 about four miles east of Salineville Sunday at 1:30 p. m.

Wright told officers he was forced off the highway by an oncoming vehicle which was passing another car. Heavy damage resulted to his 1962 sedan, the patrol said.

A car driven by John McLaren, 16, of Dairy Ln. struck the rear of another driven by Homer Fowler, 36, of Lisbon R. D. 1 on Route 39 four miles south of Lisbon Sunday at 1:15 p. m.

Officers said both were headed north and Fowler had started to make a left turn. McLaren was cited for failure to halt in the assured clear distance.

James Kehl, 19, of Salineville R. D. 2 also was cited for failure to halt in the assured clear distance following another rear-end collision on Route 39 about two and a half miles west of Wellsville Sunday morning at 8.

His car struck the rear of one driven by Wilbur J. Dennis, 64, of Wellsville R. D. in the fog, officers said. Dennis suffered a chest injury.

28 Clubs Represented

318 Attend District Convention At Chester

A total of 318 delegates and representatives registered for the 49th annual convention of the Northern District of the West Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs Saturday in the First Christian Church of Chester.

With representatives of all 28 clubs in the district present, participation reached the 100 percent mark for the first time in several years.

THE MORNING session was highlighted by an address by Mrs. John Scott of Oak Hill, president of the West Virginia Federation, on "Life At Half Price." The featured speaker in the afternoon was George K. Eubanks, manager of WETV-TV in New Martinsville, and a past district governor of Rotary International.

During business, the Chester-

Newell clubs were asked to consider a project of luring new industry to the Hancock County area as a civic project.

The Logan Club pointed out it won a $5,000 prize from the state federation for successfully completing a similar project last year in its vicinity, considered a "depressed area" by the federal government.

MRS. J. Wells Eakin of New Martinsville, president of the Northern District, conducted business. A nominating committee was elected.

Mrs. Ronald Hassig of New Martinsville reported on the state convention, Mrs. Robert McLin of Wellsburg, on an adult education institute, and Mrs. F. C. McCuskey of McMechen, the national convention. Mrs. John Gallagher Jr., reported on junior activities.

The New Cumberland Civic Club and the New Cumberland Young Women's Club were welcomed into the federation.

The Hundred club extended an invitation for the 1963 convention.

MRS. HARRY Shaw provided organ music, and soloists were Mrs. Donald Smith and Mrs. Alyce Ann McDevitt. Mrs. Theodore Martin was accompanist for Mrs. McDevitt.

Mrs. Michael Rodak of Weirton led devotions. Mayor Harry Abrams of Chester gave the welcome. Mrs. Walter Jordan of the Chester Women's Club offered greetings, and Mrs. Charles Ihlenfeld of Wheeling, the response. The Rev. Earliss Gleanoff offered morning prayer.

The Chester Civic Club was in charge of morning coffee hour and registration. The Newell Women's Club served punch after adjournment.

The Wellsburg club won a $5 prize for the most members attending, based on percentage of enrollment.

MRS. PAUL McHenry and Mrs. Walter Jordan of Chester were chairman and co-chairmen, respectively, of the convention. A noon luncheon was served with Mrs. Ray Huff as chairman, and Mrs. Robert Hindes, co-chairman. The Loyal Daughters and Willing Workers Classes of the church served.

Hostess clubs were the Chester Arts Club, Chester Woman's Club, Chester Civic Club and the Newell Women's Club.

Day Of Soviet Militia

Special National Holiday Will Honor Soviet Cops

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet cops this year are going to have a special national holiday in their honor. The "Day of the Soviet Militia" will be celebrated Nov. 10, the militia's 45th anniversary.

This appears to be another step in the Soviet regime's stubborn effort to brighten the public image of its men in blue.

Ever since the anti-Stalinist reaction set in, authorities have been trying to re-educate the guardians of public order as well as the generally hostile public.

Judging from day-to-day relations the campaign still has a long way to go.

Most Western residents regard Soviet policemen as probably the most ineffectual traffic cops in the world.

Crowds of pedestrians constantly swarm across streets against the light, ignoring angry shouts from the cop on the corner.

Cars brazenly jump traffic lights in full view of the policeman on duty or whiz past his motorcycle on the road well above the speed limit.

Sassing of policemen is almost a national pastime.

One Western resident was stopped because his car was dirty—there is a strict rule against dirty cars.

The Westerner, having listened patiently to a lecture on his duty to keep his car clean, calmly walked around the policeman, carefully looking him up and down and finally announced: "Your boots are dirty."

The embarrassed policeman sheepishly waved the driver on his way.

As in most Communist countries the number of men on Soviet police forces is a state secret. Even a casual survey indicates this is one of the most intensively policed states in the world.

For the most part, the militia (Communists don't like the word police) performs ordinary police duties and does not normally take part in the work of the security organs of secret police.

There are five types of militia: Administrative — Responsible for maintaining public order, internal passport control, traffic, sanitary inspections.

Criminal — Charged with combating crime, surveillance of "socially harmful" elements and fighting prostitution and juvenile delinquency.

Industrial — Serving as guards for industrial establishments except top-secret sites.

Departmental — Various units guarding railroads, waterways, airlines, prisons and the Moscow subway.

Militia reserve — Including foot, mounted and motorized units organized along semimilitary lines, usually found only in major cities.

'Serious Conditions' Indicated

Photographs May Verify Airline Pilot Shenanigans

WASHINGTON (AP) — N. E. Halaby, federal aviation administrator, says that if photographs and testimony of cockpit shenanigans are verified they indicate "a very serious condition existed" in airline operations and "could possibly exist today."

Some of the photos showed shapely blondes sitting in pilots' laps and actually at the controls, a donkey wandering through an airliner and pilots dozing.

The man who said he took some of the pictures—Trans World Airlines flight engineer William J. Miller—told a House subcommittee Wednesday that he also saw pilots sleeping or reading magazines on 75 per cent of the flights he was on.

"Our evidence doesn't bear out some statements that this is now prevalent," said Halaby. But he added that "we are redoubling our efforts to assure that management takes action with pilots, copilots, flight engineers and stewardesses to make certain that this does not happen again."

Halaby also announced that the agency was calling back its "project tightrope" committee of lawyers for help in general overhauling of flight safety procedures. The committee will be asked, he said, to advise how the Federal Aviation Agency can be more effective in obtaining evidence of misconduct in the air.

Halaby said the photographic evidence produced by the flight engineers indicated that at least three pilots were inattentive to duty while commanding flights.

If the evidence is verified, he said, the FAA will take action that could include suspension or revocation of the pilot's license or a civil penalty.

Halaby said that photographs and statements by flight engineers and stewardesses, if verified, indicate that "a very serious condition existed in airline operations of five, four, three, two years ago and could possibly exist today."

Halaby added that he has written to the presidents of each airline and of the pilots and flight engineers unions noting the FAA urging steps to prevent further violations.

The photographs grew out of a dispute over whether a pilot or an engineer should hold the third place in jet cockpits.

The engineers said the photographs showed lack of attention by pilots.

C. H. Ruby, president of the Airline Pilots Association, said Friday the photographs had created a very misleading picture.

Bowling Green Posts Graduate School Rise

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Graduate School enrollment has taken an amazing 48 per cent jump at Bowling Green State University. But another figure probably is more interesting to girl students.

Men students now outnumber coeds by 112. Last year, there were 81 more coeds than male students.

Registrar Glenn I. Van Wormer said enrollment figures show higher registrations on the main campus; the branches at Fremont, Fostoria, Bryan and Sandusky; the Graduate School and six extension class centers. The total is nearly 10 per cent higher than a year ago.

Federal Jury Indicts Navy Vet As Spy

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted Cornelius Drummond, 33, veteran of 16 years in the Navy, on charges of a wholesale sellout of American defense secrets to Soviet Russia.

The Baltimore-born Negro has been held under $100,000 bond since his arrest Sept. 28 outside a Larchmont, N.Y., diner. He faces a possible death penalty if convicted under the indictment.

More than a dozen types of data were listed in the indictment. A government spokesman said they covered naval weapons, submarine maintenance information and electronics secrets.

The conspiracy was said by the government to have begun in October 1957, and continued until Drummond's arrest. U.S. Atty. Vincent L. Broderick claimed that Drummond had received as much as $6,000 in a single payoff from the Russians.

The Russians named in the indictment were Evgeni Prokhorov, Ivan Y. Vyrodov, Vadim Vladimirovich Sorokin, and Mikhail Stepanovich Savelev.

Prokhorov, 31, second secretary, and Vyrodov, 38, third secretary of the Soviet U.N. Mission, left the country last week after the State Department ordered their recall. The other two Russians left earlier.

In Moscow Friday, the Soviet Union ordered Asst. U.S. Naval Attache Raymond D. Smith out of Russia, accusing him of spying for the United States. American officials said the Kremlin's action appeared to be in retaliation for the U.S. expulsion of Prokhorov and Vyrodov.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Patience Needed In Teaching Manners

It is socially and morally desirable that children should learn and observe good table manners. Proper table manners reveal consideration for the rights and feelings of other persons.

But in our zeal to cultivate good table manners in the young child we may overlook some matters in hisDr. Garry Meyers physical development and expect too much too early of the youngster.

Right we are to restrain the tot at meals from climbing on the table, reaching for things far from his plate, getting up constantly and coming back, playing with his food, making the place around his plate messy or deliberately dropping or throwing food.

But we can insist too early on conventional ways of using his spoon, knife and fork, even on not using his fingers to eat.

NORMALLY, the youngster so eager to feel big and grown-up wants to use a spoon or fork about as early as he is able and if we are calm and patient he will choose to do so.

The most important thing, however, is that he enjoy his food and feel comfortable at the family board. The more he is urged to eat what he does not want to eat, and the more his mother and others at the table talk and nag about his eating, the less likely he is to want to learn the niceties of good table manners.

When he enjoys his meals in a quiet family atmosphere in which he feels comfortable, he begins wanting to acquire the best grown-up manners at the table.

It's when he's bored and feels somebody is always after him, or when he feels jittery and excited or insecure, that he tends to do things which annoy others at the family dinner table.

At three, five or eight, when he feels alive and worthy at the dinner table, he is inclined to want quiet suggestions about the proper ways of eating. He wants to prove he is grown-up, especially if he sees older children and adults about him observing good table manners.

If, as this child grows older, he develops annoying habits such as eating noisily, cramming his mouth with food or playing with food or the silverware, he must consequently bear constant rebuke from older persons and he then may grow less ready to want to acquire good manners.

After the nature of his most annoying ways is clearly explained, it would be better to send him from the table to finish his meal than to expose him to nagging.

It's when mealtime is a comfortable, enjoyable family experience that the growing child can best acquire good manners.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I suppose I should be thankful my husband doesn't drink, play the horses or chase women, but he has one fault that drives me crazy. He leans on things.

There are grease marks from his head all over the walls of our lovely home. He enjoys reading in bed so there are ugly grease marks on my silk-tufted headboard.

kitchen to talk to me. He leaned on the wallpaper and made an ugly mark. I got mad and told him if he had to lean to go down to the basement and lean on the cinder blocks.

He said I was becoming unreasonably and crotchety in my old age. I'm only 48. Any suggestions will be welcome.—LIKE THINGS NICE.

Dear Like: Surprise your husband with a greaseless hair dressing. (No more of that greasy kid stuff.)

And when you redecorate, consider washable wallpaper. Meanwhile, stop nagging the poor guy and be thankful he's not out leaning on some blonde.

No VanCliburn

Dear Ann: I have been taking piano lessons for four years. I don't hate the piano the way, some kids do, but I'm not exactly nuts about it either. In other words, it's okay and I play just like any other kid who has had four year's worth of piano lessons.

The problem is my father. Whenever we have company he asks me to play a few numbers. It's very embarrassing because some of the people I have to play for have kids who are younger than I am and they play 10 times better than I do.

How can I get out of playing the piano for company without getting into a battle with my father? Please give me some help. I'm desperate. — NO VAN CLIBURN.

Dear No: Welcome to the club. I was a charter member of this noble band of young suffers — only with me it was the violin instead of the piano.

Take my word for it, Pal. There's no way you can get out of it and remain a member of the family in good standing. Just tell yourself that nobody expects perfection. Do your best then forget it.

The person you are really trying to please is your father. And for whatever it's worth, let me assure you that under these conditions love is not only blind, it's also deaf.

Confidentially

TO MISS FIFTEEN: The man is too old for you. Wake up and smell the cocoa.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Zippier Zipper

Dear Ann: The letter from Sal (the gal who had back zipper trouble) reminded me of the two lovely dresses I tore before someone taught me a zipper trick.

Get a 36-inch piece of string and tie the ends together. Put this "loop" through a safety pin. (It is now 18 inches long.)

Fasten the pin on the small hole in the zipper-slide. You now have the zipper attached to the string which you can toss over your shoulder after you get the dress on.

All back zippers start low enough so you can give them a little start. Use the string to finish the job, then remove the pin and the string.

When taking off the dress, again fasten the pin to the little hole in the zipper-slide and gently pull it down. It never fails to work for me.—O. CITY.

Dear O. City: Many readers sent homey hints on how to handle back zippers but thank you for submitting the most practical suggestion. Nonetheless, I doubt that the pin and string will ever replace the Man.

Ohio Counts Only 8 Dead In Accidents

By The Associated Press
Traffic 4
Fire 0
Miscellaneous 4
Total 8

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio's weekend traffic and over-all death tolls dropped to one of the lowest levels of the year this weekend.

Between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday four traffic deaths were reported to The Associated Press. Four miscellaneous fatalities also were recorded, making the over-all toll eight.

The highway toll was the lowest since three died the weekend ended April 29. The over-all toll that weekend was seven.

The fatalities:

Friday Night
Jack Danner, 11, Rt. 1, Southington (Trumbull County), in a two-car collision on Ohio 422 seven miles west of Warren.

Saturday
Paul Pierce, 18 months, Chauncey (Athens County), when he was run over by a station wagon as it was being backed out of a driveway in Chauncey.

Robert Sekerak, 33, Cleveland, of injuries suffered in a two-car collision in Cleveland.

Eugene Maynard, 26, Cyclone, W. Va., shot by his brother while they were hunting near Celina.

Gerald Miller, 56, Rt. 1, Marysville, in a head-on auto collision on Ohio 4 north of Marysville.

Sunday
Robert Gail Rexroad, 20 Rt. 2 Forest (Hardin County) when he apparently went to sleep and his car veered off U.S. 30's into a bridge abutment 12 miles west of Marion.

John Nance 7 Cincinnati hanged while playing with a length of clothesline.

Mrs. Hallie Messerly 55, Akron, in an auto collision at the intersection of Ohio 37 and 440 two miles west of Hebron in Licking County.

DiSalle Denies He Retained Man To Probe Rhodes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has denied a charge that he hired a former FBI man, Tom Conroy, to investigate his Republican opponent for governor, James A. Rhodes. The claim had been made by Rhodes.

DiSalle said, however, that he had heard Conroy was retained by independent sources. He did not identify the sources. DiSalle said he has not seen any report from Conroy.

The governor gave his views Sunday night in a half-hour interview on KYW-TV. He was questioned by several radio newsmen. The program was paid for by an organization backing DiSalle and it was noted as a "paid political broadcast."

DiSalle also discussed charges of scandal hurled by both Democrats and Republicans last week.

Many of the questions dealt with the charge by Democratic State Chairman William L. Coleman that Rhodes had diverted $54,000 in political campaign contributions to his personal use.

About the $18,000 from campaign expenses which Rhodes has claimed as 1954 income, DiSalle asserted: "Most of us know that if you have travel expenses you don't pay income tax on it."

Rhodes also has said he repaid $36,000 with interest after borrowing that amount from the campaign fund. If Rhodes repaid the amount, DiSalle said, "it doesn't change the fact that he used the money, even though temporarily."

Former City Man In Space Project

Fred Forbes of Xenia, formerly of East Liverpool, is working as a project engineer on testing the effects of space on structural panels using high - altitude balloons.

Forbes is a project engineer at the Aeronautical Systems Division, - Wright - Patterson Air Force Base, in Dayton and has a degree in architecture from the University of Cincinnati.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Forbes, formerly of this area, the 26-year-old engineer designed a space station at the Air Base as his senior thesis problem. He teaches night classes at the University of Dayton and has authored several technical papers.

Forbes' current project calls for testing self-expandable, rigidizing structures at high altitudes. Sample panels are exposed to space conditions on racks lowered from the gondola of the balloon.

After tests are perfected, larger panels designed for use as solar collectors or space maintenance docks will be shot into orbit to test their structural stability.

Giants Behind 2-1, Must Face Ford In Series Today

Yanks Gain 3-2 Victory At Stadium

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Trailing two games to one, San Francisco's Giants found themselves in the familiar role of having to battle back in today's fourth World Series game to pull abreast of the New York Yankees.

The Giants are noted for their ability to come from behind, but this time their task is doubly difficult. Not only are they in enemy territory, where they managed to collect but four hits off right-hander Bill Stafford in a 3-2 defeat Sunday, but they must face Whitey Ford, the most successful pitcher in World Series history.

The brilliant Yankee southpaw will be seeking his second triumph of this series and his 11th since he posted his first victory in 1950. He defeated the Giants in the opener, in their own ball park, 6-2.

Giant manager Alvin Dark, still confident his team can overtake the Yankees, nominated Juan Marichal, who never before has pitched in a World Series.

The right-hander from the Dominican Republic, who posted an 18-11 record during the regular season, said a foot injury which sidelined him for nearly two weeks in September, was "still a little sore," but he did not expect it to handicap him.

The odds-makers have established the Yankees a 7½-to-5 favorite to win today and 4-1 to take the series. Today's weather forecast is fair with increasing cloudiness late in the day.

Manager Ralph Houk planned to use the same lineup against right-hander Marichal he employed against left-hander Billy Pierce Sunday. The Yankees broke through Pierce's guard in only one inning but that was enough. Three straight hits in the seventh—more than they got in the other seven innings—helped produce three runs and put Pierce out.

The hits, singles by Tommy Tresh, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, were hard smashes, but three glaring mistakes helped the Yankees cause and pin the defeat on the 35-year-old southpaw.

Felipe Alou's error on Mantle's left-field single permitted Tresh to advance a base to third with Mickey taking second on the throw. Willie McCovey's failure to hold Maris' two-run single to right field permitted Roger to take second, from where he advanced to third on Ellie Howard's fly to Willie Mays.

Don Larsen, who had relieved Pierce following Maris' hit, plunked Bill Skowron on the back with a pitched ball. Then came the play on which the winning run scored, although there was no way for anyone in the sellout crowd of 71,434 to suspect it was the clincher.

Clete Boyer bounced to Jose Pagan. The shortstop flipped to second base for a force on Skowron but Chuck Hiller momentarily bobbled the ball, then got off a weak throw to first, a fraction of a second too late for the double play. Maris crossed the plate with the third run.

Dark planned to make only one change from the lineup that could get only four hits against the strong pitching of Stafford. Two came in the ninth, when the Giants scored their only runs on Ed Bailey's two-out home run on top of Mays' double.

Harvey Kuenn, who failed to hit in five tries against Ford in the opener, returned to the outfield but was placed in right field with Alou remaining in left.

Nicklaus, Savic Team To Capture Cincy Tourney

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jack Nicklaus is still champion of the Cincinnati Invitational Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament—but as a professional instead of an amateur.

The 22-year-old Columbus golf ace teamed up with Padel Savic to beat 71 other teams with a 13-below-par total of 127 on the 6,400-yard par 70 Losantiville Country Club course.

Nicklaus' share of the $10,000 prize money was $2,000.

Nicklaus and Savic finished four strokes ahead of Bob Shave Jr. of Willoughby and Don Albert, a Columbus amateur. They had a 64-67-131.

Giants Find Field And Club Tough

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco's Giants found Yankee Stadium as tough for them as the Yankees themselves yet remained confident today they would beat both in the World Series.

As the Yankees scored three times in the seventh inning en route to Sunday's 3-2 decision, both Felipe Alou in left field and Willie McCovey in right drew errors fielding hits.

Catcher Ed Bailey declared it was tough to see in this park, adding, "I've never seen Felipe have trouble in the outfield."

There was gloom in the Giants' dressing room but no more than after a regular season loss during this hectic 1962 campaign.

Harvey Kuenn who plays right field today in this fourth game, said "we bounced back before and we have confidence we can do it again."

Despite having some trouble seeing the ball in Yankee Stadium, Bailey hit the two-run ninth inning homer that gave greater significance to a bad bounce, a pitching mistake and a near miss.

It was in the seventh that lefty Billy Pierce ran into trouble after pitching a fine two-hitter up to that point.

Tom Tresh opened the seventh hitting a low inside fast ball for a single up the middle. Then Mickey Mantle slammed a Pierce slider for a single to left with the ball taking a high bounce and the runners reaching second and third.

Beavers' Last Minute TD Nips United

Injured Gaydos Scores In 22-20 Win

An injury-riddled Beaver Local eleven struck late in the fourth quarter to keep their undefeated record intact as they edged a fighting, upset-minded United Local team, 22-20, in the annual Homecoming game for the Beavers at Community Field Saturday night.

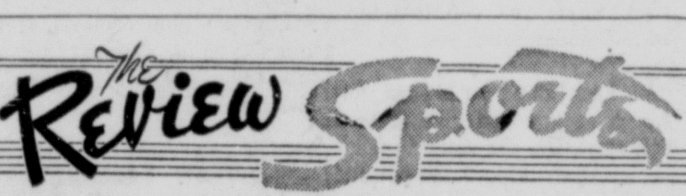

The Beavers had to call on two injured players, George Gaydos and Dave Myers before they were able to defeat a determined band of Eagles as another capacity crowd watched. The win pushed the Beaver Local record to 5-0 and left the visiting Eagles of United with a 2-3 slate.

FOR ALMOST forty-five minutes it seemed that the jinx of losing Homecoming games was continuing to haunt the forces of Coach Jack O'Rourke as the Beavers trailed by a 20-16 count. Not only did they trail but they also lacked possession as they had just given the ball to the Eagles on a fumble near mid field.

On the next play things brightened for Beaver Local as tackle Keith Berger fell on a Gary Blythe fumble on the Eagle 49 yard stripe. The United line held on the next two plays by giving up only three yards to Jim McLaughlin and Roger Diddle to bring up a third down and seven yards to go situation.

At this point George "The Grinder" Gaydos, still pained by a shoulder injury, took over the faltering Beaver running attack. It took him eight plays to push the ball the 48 yards to pay dirt. Gaydos climaxed the 51-yard drive by blasting through the left side of the United Local line with defenders hanging on his back for the final two yards.

Gaydos scored with only 40 seconds showing on the scoreboard clock.

United scored first in the game on a sensational pass from Blythe to Bill McGranahan on the BL 41. McGranahan then raced the remaining distance to close out the 51 yard play. Blythe continued his passing mastery by hitting Richard Orsburn in the end zone to give the Eagles an 8-0 lead, with 1:20 remaining in the first period.

A fighting Beaver team fought right back on the ensuing kickoff as Floyd Saltsman, taking over the brunt of the ball carrying chores, dashed through United defenders to return the ball to midfield. A McLaughlin to Gary Berhar pass picked up almost ten yards on the United 40.

Saltsman then added 13 to push the ball closer to pay dirt on the Eagle 27 yard stripe. On the next play Saltsman added two more yards to his growing total to place the ball on the 25. A like a victorious lead on the second play of the fourth quarter when Bill Schroyer picked up six inches and a TD. A thrilling Red and White goal line stand held United to just four yards on three plays before it faltered to give up the touchdown.

Blythe then went back to attempt a pass for the conversion. But an enraged Beaver defense pushed him to earth to stop the conversion and hold United's lead at 20-16.

Tops on defense for Beaver Local were Roger Walker, John Aliulis, Keith Berger and Gary Berhar. An injured Dave Myers entered the game with 5:01 showing on the clock to give needed support.

SALTSMAN led all Beaver Local ball carriers as he picked up 52 yards in 14 carries to pick up the slack caused by Gaydos' injury. McLaughlin added 43 yards against an aggressive Eagle line. Although Gaydos only played about four minutes on offense, he did the kicking chores. He registered 36 yards on eight attempts during the drive which led to the narrow 22-20 win.

Pacing the United attack was the running of Schroyer, with 72 yards and the passing of Blythe with 98 yards by the air route.

Beaver Local's next opponent will be Northwestern, Pa., next Friday night at Community Field. Two of Beaver Local's injured players, Larry McLaughlin and Don Barborak, didn't dress for the game. The other two, Gaydos and Myers, saw only limited action.

Zigerelli Leads Leopards' Attack

Sam Zigerelli a pint-sized junior halfback, was the big man for the Midland Leopards Saturday night as they came on with four second half touchdowns to trounce the Monaca Indians, 31-6, before some 1,500 fans at Monaca Memorial Stadium. The game was the first Class A contest for Midland this year.

The Leopards came up with the best offensive showing of the season, rolling up 315 yards on the ground and 118 through the air. Zigerelli picked up 177 yards in nine carries, scored two touchdowns, and had a hand in four of the five Midland scores.

ZIGERELLI broke loose for gains of 58 and 71 yards, the latter resulting in the final Leopard score of the night.

Mike Krivosia, another junior halfback, ran for 97 yards in only four carries. One of his runs was a 59-yard scoring jaunt on the third play of the game.

The Midland passing game was in high gear for the second straight week. Leopard passers hit on 10 of 11 attempts. Quarterback Don Miller had a perfect night, hitting on seven of seven passes for 68 yards and one touchdown.

Zigerelli started the Leopards on their second half scoring parade. Monaca's Larry Lintner fell on a punt that bounced off the back of Miller on the Midland 20-yard line in the opening minutes of the second half and Monaca had its chance to tie up the game.

MONACA'S touchdown hopes ended promptly when, on the first play Midland end Pete Cilli threw Monaca signal-caller Blaise Bergiel for a 12-yard loss and Monaca eventually lost the ball on downs on the Midland 23.

At this point Zigerelli started the second half scoring parade. He broke through the left side of the Monaca line and springed 58 yards to the Monaca 19 where Jim Lavrusky forced him out of bounds.

Three plays later Zigerelli slipped between his own left end and tackle and went six yards for the second Midland score with 5:15 remaining in the third quarter.

Pesky Named Sox Manager

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Pesky set 1965 as the target date for his young Boston Red Sox to come of age as he took over today his new job as manager.

"We've got a young ball club," said Pesky "and we have a solid nucleus of a club that is going to go places in the future. We are going to go with the young fellows as much as possible. You can't tell how fast some of those fellows will develop.

"Actually, I haven't had time to think it over. The job came as a complete surprise to me. I had no idea that it was coming. I was going ahead with plans to go back to Seattle (Red Sox farm in the Pacific Coast League) I was trying to get a couple of guys to go with my young men out there."

Pesky succeeded Mike Higgins, who moved up to executive vice president of baseball for the Red Sox Saturday night. At the same time, Dick O'Connell became executive vice president of business for the club.

Pesky, of course, has the defending American League batting champ in Pete Runnels and pitching veterans like Gene Conley, Mike Fomiele and Ike Delock among others.

Pesky said he was convinced to try his hand as a manager when serving as a player-coach under Ralph Houk at Denver in the American Association.

"It was Ralph who told me to go out on my own," said Pesky of the current New York Yankee manager. "He told me he wished he had started earlier."

The new Boston manager said he would make decisions about his coaching staff after the World Series, following more conferences with Higgins.

For those who forget easily Pesky, 43, was a top flight short-stop-third baseman in the American League from 1942 to 1954, with three years out for the war. He had a lifetime batting average of .307.

Los Angeles To Rehire Walt Alston

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Alston probably will be retained as manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, The Associated Press learned today.

Soon after the World Series, or possibly sooner, President Walter F. O'Malley of the Dodgers will call a press conference in Los Angeles and announce that the 50-year-old Alston has agreed to his ninth one-year term.

O'Malley and Alston are not attending the World Series games in New York. Emile (Buzzie) Bavasi, Dodger vice-president and general manager is here but he would neither confirm nor deny that Alston will be back.

The Dodgers blew the National League pennant by losing their last four regularly scheduled games and then dropped a best-of-three game playoff to the San Francisco Giants.

Cleveland Wins, Skins Gain Third

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Someone hung the "Golden Boy" tag on Paul Hornung because of his curly, blond hair. That was a mistake. The gold in Hornung has to be his toe and his ability to win the money games for the Green Bay Packers.

The former Notre Dame star booted the defending National Football League champions into sole possession of first place in the Western Conference Sunday, kicking three field goals in a 9-7 victory over the Detroit Lions.

As usual, he saved the best one for when it was needed—this time 33 seconds from the finish.

The Washington Redskins have that golden feeling today, too, having put together their first three-game winning streak since 1957 with a 20-14 decision over the Los Angeles Rams that kept them in the lead in the Eastern Conference with a 3-0-1 mark.

In other NFL games, the New York Giants stayed hot on the trail of the Redskins with a 31-14 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals; the Cleveland Browns defeated Dallas' Cowboys 19-10; San Francisco rolled over the Baltimore Colts 21-13, and the Chicago Bears shut out Minnesota 13-0.

Pittsburgh won over Philadelphia 13-7 Saturday night.

Herb Adderley set up Hornung's winning kick. The former Michigan State halfback intercepted one of Milt Plum's passes and ran 40 yards to Detroit's 21-yard line with less than two minutes to play. After two running plays, Hornung stepped back and split the uprights from the 21-yard line.

His other two boots were from the 15-yard line, one in the first period the first time the Packers had the ball and the other in the third quarter.

Washington quarterback Norm Snead found end Fred Dugan a favorite target after using halfback Bobby Mitchell in the first three games. He hit Dugan six times, twice for touchdowns.

Y. A. Tittle passed and ran—at the tender age of 36—the Giants (3-1) to their third win in four starts. He hit Del Shofner with a TD pass, outstepped the Cards' defenders for a 21-yard scoring run and then paved the route for Alex Webster's one-yard scoring burst. In all, he completed 16 of 26 for 190 yards. The Cards (1-3) got both scores from the running of John David Crow.

Jimmy Brown scored two touchdowns, one on a 50-yard pass play from Cleveland quarterback Jim Ninowski, who suddenly fired the Browns (2-2) to a second half comeback with nine completions in 10 tries. Lou Groza helped celebrate "Lou Groza Day" in Cleveland with a pair of field goals.

The 49ers (2-2) offense was too much for Baltimore (2-2) and its defense too much for Colts' quarterback Johnny Unitas, who was lifted in the second period after gaining only five yards on two completions. John Brodie of the 49ers hit 15 of 19 passes for 143 yards, one for a TD, while J. D. Smith's running (31 tries for 145 yards) helped set up a pair of scores by Bill Kilmer.

Roger LeClerc kicked field goals of 13 and 40 yards for the Bears (3-1) and Ron Bull ran 24 yards for a TD after Billy Wade helped engineer the drive with his passing and running.

7 Fumbles Help Stanton Top Salineville 22-0

SALINEVILLE—Seven fumbles by Salineville paved the way for a 22-0 victory for Stanton Local before a large homecoming crowd here Saturday afternoon.

The first two touchdowns by Stanton, which recorded its second win against a loss and a tie, were the result of Salineville fumbles.

Coach Don McBride's team scored its first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 23 yard pass from Scott Porter to Marlon McCuen. A run for the conversion failed.

That's the way the score stood, 6-0, at halftime but Stanton pushed across eight points in the third period when Bob Reese busted over from one yard out.

Porter than ran for the conversion.

A six-yard jaunt by John Pearson in the final period ended Stanton's scoring. Larry Mills tacked on the two-point conversion.

During ceremonies at halftime, Sharon Kellison, a junior, was crowned Homecoming Queen. A homecoming dance was held Saturday night.

Ohio State 2nd Big Ten Team To Falter In West

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

One thing is certain. Horace Greeley wasn't talking to the Big Ten when he issued his historic advice, "Go west, young man, go west."

Two weeks in a row now a nationally ranked college football team from the Big Ten has ventured into the California sunshine. Two weeks in a row they have straggled back to the Midwest the victims of an upset.

Michigan State was the first.

Stanford's 16-13 triumph knocked the Spartans out of the top ten.

Saturday it was Ohio State, the No. 1 team in the nation. An inspired crew of UCLA Bruins did the honors in this one, stunning the Buckeyes 9-7 with three goal line stands.

Three times Ohio State put together long drives that ground away steadily until they reached the one-yard line. Three times UCLA turned back the threats.

Kermit Alexander flashed off tackle for 45 yards for a UCLA touchdown in the first period, but Ohio State went up 7-6 in the second period. From then on it was all defense until UCLA sophomore Larry Zeno kicked the winning 24-yard field goal with 95 seconds left.

Two other top ranked teams, Georgia Tech and Army, had their perfect records blighted in a continuing string of upsets.

Georgia Tech (No. 5) got a 10-7 licking from rebounding Louisiana State in a nationally televised game and Army (No. 10) fell before Michigan 17-7.

Potter Runners Capture Bellaire's 10-Team Meet

The East Liverpool Potter cross-country team stamped itself as a definite favorite when the District meet rolls around later this month after winning the fifth annual Bellaire Invitational run Saturday.

Coach Frank Chan's Potters scored 55 points to finish on top in the field of 10 teams. Weirton was second with 73 and Marietta third with 77.

East Liverpool had three runners in the first ten with Roger Linnville leading the Potters in fifth place, Bruce McCoy, sixth and Joe Ingram, eighth. Others placing for East Liverpool were Joe Massey 17th, Sherman Phelps 19th, Ed Hedrick 24th and Ron Roush 32nd.

The first ten runners received individual awards.

East Liverpool's next meet will be a triangular affair with Ambridge and Weirton at 4:30 at the East Liverpool Country Club.

How To Restore
A Glossy Finish

Question: We have a large stereo console, made of what looks like mahogany wood, although it probably isn't.

No matter how many times we wax it, the finish remains dull. Can you tell us how to restore the glossy finish?

Answer: This could be due to a number of things. It may be that there just isn't any glossy finish on the wood to restore. In that case, the wax will not automatically bring back the former high gloss, which probably was varnish or lacquer. Another possibility is that you have been applying wax periodically for a long time without ever removing any of the old coats of wax.

Your best bet is to remove all the wax on the wood. Sometimes this can be done with turpentine, but more often it requires the use of a commercial wax remover.

When all the wax has been removed, apply a single coat of new wax and see whether you can buff it to a gloss. If not, the wood needs a new varnish or lacquer finish.

If you plan on a refinishing job, be sure to remove that new coat of wax you put on.

After that, you'll have to decide whether to get right down to the bare wood and then refinish or apply a new coat on the old. In most cases, you'll get a better result by removing all the old finish and starting anew.

Wittenberg U. Counts
New Enrollment High

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Add Wittenberg University to the growing list of Ohio colleges and universities reporting record enrollments this fall.

Registrar Robert Donbar says enrollment in Wittenberg's undergraduate schools, Hama Divinity School, graduate studies division and evening sessions has gone above 3,000 for the first time in the university's history.

The total, Donbar said, is 3,037, compared with 2,791 a year ago. Including short-term non-credit classes, Wittenberg expects to serve about 5,000 this year, he added.

BULKY SPORTING GOODS like golf clubs and camping equipment join garden tools in this deep carport wall. Tongue-and-groove western red cedar siding gives storage installation the look of fine wall paneling. To frost-proof cabinet interiors, line with building paper.

Carport Adds
Storage Unit

PORTLAND, Ore. — Many's the home that suffers from lack of a basement and just doesn't have enough cupboards to swallow up the usual accumulation of suitcases, camping equipment, rock collections and Christmas tree ornaments.

What can you do when you run out of space?

The modern answer is to stow all those infrequently used belongings in the carport where good designing can give you one, two or three walls of floor-to-ceiling storage closets.

Closets built into carport walls take little square footage in return for the world of space they offer.

On an average, less than a three-foot depth is needed for the closets, and the vertical space is already defined, between roof and floor. Posts supporting the roof can also be utilized as part of the framework for the carport storage walls. Other framing members can be ordinary 2-by-4s.

Handsome is as handsome does — but there's no reason why the storage walls can't be elegant in appearance as well as highly functional. When cloaked in a lovely, durable siding lumber such as western red cedar and finished with a natural cinnamon- cedar stain, they take on the look of rich wood paneling.

Tongue-and-groove pattern siding is easiest to work with, particularly when constructing hinged doors for the storage wall, but board-and-batten, drop, bevel or channel siding also may be used to match the house siding style.

It's smart to design the walls to perform specific storage duties so that not an inch of space is wasted. To make best use of vertical space, some closets should be shelved to handle boxed paraphernalia like holiday decorations and camp equipment.

Other closets should be narrow and have divider pegs in them and perhaps hanging nails so that skis, rakes, fishing poles can be stored upright. Still other closets should be wide and have double doors to permit passage of bulky roll-in equipment like the power mower, golf cart, children's trikes and scooters.

In most instances, it's best to design the closets to open to the inside of the carport. This gives good shelter and permits easy loading of sports gear from the closets to the car.

However, if space inside the carport is very tight, the closets can be turned around to open to the outside. You also may want to consider turning some closets in and some out, those opening from outside to be used specifically for garden equipment.

Autos Spur
Steel Output

CLEVELAND (AP)—Orders are running well ahead of last month, and October shipments from the nation's steel mills are sure to top September's by a sizable margin, Steel Magazine predicted today.

The upturn in steel buying stems largely from stepped-up demand in the automotive industry, the publication said.

If tentative production schedules hold, the weekly metalworking journal said, October's auto production will be the highest ever for the month: 704,000. Last month's output of 470,353 cars was the largest for September since 1953.

"Thanks to Detroit's ambitious plans," Steel continued, "demand for sheets has picked up more than enough to offset seasonal downturns in such products as tin plate, line pipe, and the wide plates that are used to make pipe."

Steel production this week will be slightly higher than the 1.78 million tons that the publication estimated the industry poured last week.

Despite an order uptrend, the magazine said, steelmakers doubt the market will support higher prices.

"Selective increases can't be ruled out, but producers would have a hard time making selections," Steel said. "Most products face stiff competition at current levels."

Ironically, the publication noted, government opposition to a price move seems to be softening.

"Caught in a profit squeeze," Steel said, "steelmakers are facing competition among themselves, with competitive materials, and with imported products."

The publication said import competition was possibly one reason Kaiser Steel Corp. cut its West Coast steel prices by an average $12 a ton earlier this week.

Sluggish demand is keeping pressures on scrap prices. Steel's price composite on the key grade, No. 1 heavy melting, held at $25.67 a gross ton last week.

4 Youthful Inmates
Win Sculptor Award

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A six-foot welded metal piece entitled "Master of Civilization" won one of the top prizes in the amateur division at the Wisconsin State Fair sculpture contest.

When it came time to present the prizes, it was learned that the sculptors were four boys, 16 to 18 years, who were inmates of the State School for Boys.

The youths, who had been committed for burglary, car theft and truancy, completed the sculpture in an art class.

Three of the youngsters had been paroled and two were on hand to accept the blue ribbon.

Carpet, Rug Will Add
To Home's Remodeling

"Start at the bottom and work up" is good advice for an aspiring young businessman — and it's equally true for home decorating plans.

If you have added a room to your house, or renovated an existing area, working "from the floor up" offers a definite advantage when you start decorating.

According to the American Carpet Institute, a carpet or rug included in initial plans will add both decorative and functional benefits to your improved home.

Consider the decorative aspects, for example. Today's wide color range in carpets and rugs will provide you with plenty of clues for choosing other colors in paints, wallpaper, fabrics and accessories. Since the floor is the largest unbroken area of a room, it's best to let this area establish a firm color foundation for the rest of the room.

You might, for instance, choose a multicolor "tweed" effect and pick out one of the colors to repeat in other large-scale furnishings, such as sofas, or the wall color. As a general rule, walls should be in a lighter tone than the carpet or rug, balancing the "heaviest" color at the bottom.

If you prefer a solid color, patterns can be used elsewhere in the room, blending or contrasting with the carpet or rug. In solid colors, a medium tone is most practical underfoot in busy living areas. Save the pastels or rich, dark shades for more formal rooms in your home.

As for practical considerations, carpets and rugs chosen early in the game can help save money on remodeling. In a new room, carpet and padding can be installed over subflooring to provide the finished floor as well as the basis for decor. One caution: In this case, choose a good-quality, durable carpeting for wall-to-wall installation. It's never economical to skimp on quality for heavy-use areas.

Complete carpeting is also economical if existing floors are in need of refinishing. A carpet installation makes a room seem "finished" immediately and saves the cost of sanding, varnishing or staining.

If your floors are in good condition, however, and decorative in their own right, you may want to set them off with a rug. Depending on your own preference, you can choose a room-size rug — one that comes to within 6 to 8 inches of the wall all around — or an accent rug, available in a variety of shapes and sizes.

No matter which style of carpet or rug you choose, you'll see some "instant benefits" — more warmth and comfort underfoot, and easier care and maintenance.

Dieters Should Set Mind To Slimming

To overweights who want to diet, but find the going rough: Put your first efforts into getting the right mental set. The way to start reducing from the standpoint of least resistance is to give it a re-thought. Psychologists make it clear that the way you think and feel about a problem determines the outcome.

Forethought costs little exertion. Actually it means to plan and picture in a relaxed, happy way, how you wish to act in a certain situation.

This plan is surprisingly effective. By making an advance decision you build a connection between the mental resolve and the act of putting the decision into practice. This is not a fleeting wish, nor is it idle day dreaming. To take forethought is to create a plan of action.

SET IS NOTHING mysterious. Whether you call this conditioning, or giving your mind a blue print, it adds up to a mind-set. This set then carries over into constructive action and you have what amounts to a build-in-slimming-system.

Recognize that you will need to reaffirm your resolve to slim down and regularly reprint the plan in your mind.

If there is any magic way to reduce, this thinking-slim pattern is it. When you make advance decisions with regard to second helpings, rich desserts and party calories, then the actual doing is not a constant tug of will.

Technically you have pre-established, through planning, a pathway in the nervous system which bids your mind to subsequently respond. Results are sheer magic!

Now for some practical, purposeful forethought: If you are prone to overeat at the evening meal, give some prior thought to how much you want to eat, and when the time comes you will be in control. In your thinking, decide to take modest portions.

By such pre-planning you remain aware of what you are doing. Shortly you see that second helpings are largely habit. The same is true with rich desserts.

Friends, you do not have to believe this, nor disbelieve it. Practice the plan — it works. Is advance decision-making comparable to auto-suggestion? Yes, but who better can tell your mind what you want to do than you!

MIND-SET HELPS you to reach your goal. On the borderline of sleep is a good time to practice constructive picturing. Pre-planning sets a tremendous force into action. This is the basis of all self-help methods.

The set-system is just the opposite of trying to browbeat yourself into staying on a diet. By thinking constructively you harness your will to a goal. Plan and picture. It's the picture you give your mind that gives the will power.

Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for "Choose To Lose Diet. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Akron Boy Slays

How Killing Feels

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — John Paisley, 13, has admitted to sheriff's deputies he fatally shot a schoolmate to see "what it would feel like to kill somebody."

Deputies said Paisley, of nearby Wadsworth, signed a statement saying he shot a 13-year-old hunting companion Saturday. The victim was John Harter of Copley Twp. Deputies quoted the boy as saying he shot his companion in a barn on the Fred Hoerger farm in Copley Twp.

The youth was being held in the detention home. Officers were to confer today on what action to take.

The Paisley boy was quoted as saying he fired the shotgun at his chum on the spur of the moment after awakening. He told deputies Harter still was sleeping in a zipped-up sleeping bag.

The youth first said he was outside the barn when he heard a shot, then switched his story, saying he shot his companion accidentally.

The pair had planned to hunt birds on the Hoerger farm Saturday. Paisley was described as "unperturbed" and "not a bit shaken" by deputies who questioned him. He and the victim both attended the same school and were regarded as close friends.

Waste Space Can Serve As Dressing Unit

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Is there extra space in your bedroom, in the hall or near the staircase? Consider building yourself a little elegance, such as a dressing room.

That suggestion by interior designer Harold King may be carried out, he says, if you have an area the width of about five feet that you use as a passageway, and length equal to more than the width of a closet. Many old homes have extra space at stair landings outside bedrooms.

"Space may be utilized in many ways, though often we overlook the possibilities available to us," he says. "You can find waste space in almost every house, even when it seems least conceivable."

KING PLANNED a dressing room "replacing drawers and bureau used in the bedroom for built-ins in the new area, permitting upper space to be used for practical advantage."

He put floor-to-ceiling units connected with a bow-shaped vanity in the dressing area. The units on either side consist of an upper section with shelves and door and five drawers below. The opposite wall is mirrored.

"The upper section is useful for hats, pocketbooks, tote bags. There are smaller compartments for jewelry, hosiery, gloves in it. The man's upper section is good for handkerchiefs, socks, shirts and every-day wearing apparel," King points out. Of course, drawers below may be used for many things.

The space saved in the bedroom may be used for added luxury if that is what you want, he says. A chaise longue, desk, ottomans and capacious seating units add to comfort.

"It isn't necessary to get too elaborate in building a dressing room," advises King. "You can spend as little or as much as you like. Shelves with doors rather than drawers may be installed or pull-out trays may serve the purpose."

MANY PEOPLE like to use the dressing room area for storing a wardrobe rather than for small accessories. In that case a closet for suits and dresses may be installed on either side of the vanity, instead of drawers, with space above for hats.

King's dressing-room idea was carried out in a very large house so the dressing room space utilized didn't cramp other occupants of the home.

The wall between the bedroom and dressing room is yellow and white striped vinyl, the same shade as the yellow used in the bedroom. The mimosa carpet on the floor is the same as that in the bedroom. The covering of a wrought iron and brass vanity bench is yellow velvet.

"It's a good idea to keep a small area soft in color and fabric," says King. "And carpet is lush, always nice under bare feet."

When people plan new units, however small, King thinks they should get the advice of an architect.

"The first step is to consult with an interior designer to get ideas. Then consult with an architect so that it may be planned properly. Amateurs make mistakes that are far more costly than the services of an architect. Construction men know what they are doing but they can't always help you plan an area," he says.

When you have a little space to work with you can camouflage the area. For example, in the bathroom built-ins may be used around the basin and the countertop extended to conceal a radiator. This could be useful as a vanity area.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: School days are here again and all over the country, mothers are embarking on new experiences or maybe just renewing old ones. They are starting a year of being den mothers, blue birds, camp fire, girl scout, or brownie leaders. No matter what group you are heading, there is probably one thing in common . . . the need for craft ideas. We need things to keep a group of boys or girls occupied and enthused for an hour or two each week for the season.

One of the biggest problems a leader faces is keeping the children happy and busy without breaking her budget, which is usually pretty slim. The aim of this column is to give some ideas for doing a lot with a little!

For instance, take sawdust.

Planing mills have difficulty disposing of it. Did you know that sawdust combined with wall paper paste makes a wonderful modeling compound?

The recipe is: Two cups of fine sawdust, mix well with one cup of wall paper paste, and enough water as needed for a good consistency. That's all there is to it.

This mixture is especially good for making puppets. Form head around small dowels or sticks. Mold features such as ears and nose. Stand in empty soda bottles to dry so the heads won't become lopsided. When dry — several days — glue on felt eyes, mouth, ears, hair, etc.

Simple clothes may be made either of crepe paper or scraps of material and tacked or glued to the doll itself.

Incidentally, wall paper paste is one of the biggest bargains you will find. Buy it at any store that sells wall paper. It's cheap — about 25 cents a bag — and one bag will last quite a while. It's easy to mix as needed; your boys and girls will love it too. Also it really sticks. . . .

JOAN FLANERY

No Wrinkles

DEAR HELOISE: There are some ironing trouble spots where it is very difficult to get a smooth, flat, wrinkle-free surface such as the cuffs on men's trousers, the area above men's pockets and between the side pockets and seams.

Also the monograms on shirts and blouses and the lettering on bowling and work shirts are not easy to iron smoothly.

To help you with these problems, keep a wash cloth and a terry hand towel handy when ironing! Fold the wash cloth and the material up even with the adjacent double or triple thickness. Ditto the side pockets and at the top of the cuff.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Murder Charge Filed Against Ohio Husband

SAVANNAH, Tenn. (AP) — A Dayton, Ohio, man, charged with first-degree murder in the slaying Wednesday of a friend of his ex-wife has been returned to Ohio. He turned himself in here Friday.

Walter N. Arney, 39, walked into the office of General Sessions Judge James Barlow and announced, "I killed a man," Barlow said.

Dayton police said Arney was charged in the gunshot slaying of Frank E. Smith, 42, a Dayton pollution inspector. Smith was killed by a single shot as he walked with Arney's former wife, Ila, 39, officers said.

Witnesses told police several shots were fired at the woman as she ran, but she was uninjured.

Stepped Into Trouble

DOTHAN, Ala. (AP) — Farmer Mack B. Parrish says he'll look twice in the future before donning his rain boots. Parrish was pulling on one of his boots when a rattlesnake sank its fangs into his foot. The reptile had crawled into the boot which Parrish kept in an outbuilding for use in wet weather.

BEDROOMS IN THE REAR give this split level the look of a ranch from the street. The location of the front door at a 90 degree turn from the walk allows a formal balanced gable treatment at the dining room and the projected closet and lavatory form a recess for the dining room's cathedral-type window. The almost entirely open living level gives a luxurious feeling of space. Bedrooms are in the rear for privacy and quiet. The elevated deck from all three bedrooms forms part of the porch cover below. Plan HA250M, with 1,665 square feet on the living and bedroom levels, was designed by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica 32, N. Y.

Emergency Electric Power Can Prove A Money-Saver

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

This is a good time of the year to think about auxiliary electric power, which can be found in about only one out of every ten thousand so-called modern homes.

In the average American home, take away the television, the radio, the electric light, the heating plant, the telephone or any of the numerous appliances operated by electricity, and one might just as well be back in pioneer days.

One good storm or hurricane may well put a household in that situation unless provision is made against it. Oddly enough, this happens in most of our suburban communities often enough to justify taking emergency measures.

The answer to all of the discomforts and lack of service mentioned above, with the exception of the telephone, lies in the installation of an emergency generator in your garage, workroom or other available space in the house.

An observant person has no doubt noticed that the old swish of the carpenter's saw has been missing from new building sites for the past several years. It has been replaced by the whine of the electric saw operated by a small motor-driven generator. A slightly more powerful generator will provide your home with light, heat, refrigeration, radio, television and vacuum — cleaning at a surprisingly low cost.

A small generator will provide a bulwark against almost every disruption of the comforts you are used to and the average good unit will operate for a full day and a night on five gallons of gasoline.

Most of us know that investments made in equipment which saves our wives from back-breaking drudgery, large quantities of frozen foods from spoilage and our children from discomfort or panic during storms that disrupt the good public services to which we are accustomed are not extravagances but actually money savers.

AFL Unit Backs Rhodes Race At Cleveland Dinner

CLEVELAND (AP)—James A. Rhodes, Republican candidate for governor, is drawing support from 10 union leaders in Cleveland.

The 10, all from unions on the AFL side of the merged Cleveland AFL-CIO Federation of Labor, disclosed their choice at a $10-a-plate clam bake sponsored by the Cleveland Building and Construction Trades Council at Northfield Race Track Sunday.

Rhodes gave a two-minute speech. Thomas E. McDonald, who heads the council, said every cent of the funds from the clam bake would go into Rhodes' campaign funds. A Rhodes aide set the figure at between $4,000 and $5,000.

The clam bake committee was made up of McDonald; Peter J. Zicarelli, head of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 1337; Frank Evans, Allied Industrial Workers; Cecil Dunlap, Retail Clerks Local 880; Ike Smink, Printers; William Goldberg, Carpenters; Joseph Gavlak, Builders; John O'Boyle, Laborers; Miles Walsh, Pipefitters; Early Boewen, Operating Engineers, and Joseph E. Murphy, Building Service.

The unions have not formally endorsed the state auditor's program for creating of a New Jobs and Industrial Development Authority of Ohio, however.

The state AFL-CIO has endorsed incumbent Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Vatican Council Weighs Broader Understanding

For the first time, this year's Vatican Council will be attended by observers from other denominations. This in itself is an indication of growing union among Christians. Here, in the last of three articles, an Associated Press writer who will attend explores what this may mean in future years.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholicism maintains it is the "one true Church."

However, when its historic 2nd Vatican Council convenes Oct. 11 in Rome, representatives of other communions also will be officially seated in the solemn assembly.

They also are somehow part of Christianity, Rome recognizes, even though nominally outside the avowed one Church.

It is a subtle but significant point, and offers a dramatic undercurrent to the council, first of its kind in nearly a century, and the only one ever held under Rome's auspices to be attended by those not in its fold.

Although the Protestant, Anglican and other "delegate-observers" will have no direct voice in the decisions, their presence will be felt, and their views may exercise a latent side effect on the proceedings.

One purpose of the council, says Pope John XXIII, is to help "clear away some of the roadblocks" to Christian reunion. He himself has been a prime mover in renewing links with Protestantism and Eastern Orthodoxy.

"Separated brethren," he calls them.

Although the council intends no direct moves for reunion at present, the fact that this is a future, inherent goal has been a paramount point of public interest in the council, both among Catholics and others.

From pulpits of nearly every kind have come expressions of hope—and doubts—about possible steps in this direction.

Leaders of the Episcopal, United Presbyterian, Lutheran, Greek Orthodox and other churches in this country, as well as denominational officials abroad, have urged prayers among their members in the council's behalf.

"All Christians, whatever be their confession, hope and pray that this historic event will serve to advance the cause of unity for which our Lord prayed," says the Rev. Dr. W. A. Visser 'tHooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches.

One key zone of past tension, already relaxed in some measure and which conceivably may be eased further, has been Rome's traditional aloofness from other denominations, on the ground that it is the only true Church.

One proposal is that the council make absolutely clear that valid baptism, although conferred outside Roman Catholicism, joins a person to Christ and, at least in part, to His Church, thus affirming that true aspects of the church extend beyond Rome's administration.

This wouldn't automatically ease the long-standing doctrinal rifts, deepened by years of non-communication between Rome and other Christians.

But, it would, in the view of many church authorities, provide a basis for reciprocity and stimulate effort toward understanding and to overcome differences, when possible.

Rhodes Suggests 'Branch' Offices For Ohio's Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Branch offices for the governor in Ohio's major cities were proposed today by Republican gubernatorial candidates James A. Rhodes.

Rhodes listed Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo as being "particularly remote from the capital city," and said "the big city problems of today demand closer liaison between the governor's office and municipal problems."

He said if elected governor, he would establish such branch offices at once and set a schedule of periodic meetings at the offices to discuss local problems with local officials and residents.

"It is becoming more and more important," he said, "to halt the trend of state government away from the people and turn it back to them."

Ohio's large urban areas have many problems unique to densely populated areas with which a governor should be familiar, the candidate said, adding that the state can often step in and help solve problems which a municipality finds almost insurmountable in handling alone.

Frank Sinatra's films have been banned in Iraq, the government announced in Baghdad. The announcement said the ban was imposed because the actor expressed sympathy with Israel's aims in a recent visit.

Huntington Hartford II, the A&P food store heir, has taken a third wife. The 51-year-old socialite married the former Diane Brown, a pretty onetime model in her early 20s from a small town near Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Wed in a quiet ceremony at his family's plush country estate at Wyckoff, N.J., they left for an undisclosed honeymoon destination.

Jennifer Johnson, youngest daughter of U. Alexis Johnson, deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs, says she plans to marry Maitre Mojbara, who heads an air conditioning assembly firm in Bangkok, Thailand.

Brazilian-born Miss Johnson, 19, says she expects to wed the 31-year-old graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology before year's end — tentatively by Dec. 1. The wedding will be in Bangkok, from where she made the announcement.

Wife To Accompany Lodge To GOP Dinner

LISBON — Mrs. John Davis Lodge, wife of the speaker for the Columbian County Republican dinner, will accompany her husband in his appearance Oct. 17.

Lodge, former ambassador to Spain, will speak at the 6:30 dinner at Beaver Local High School, according to Atty. Charles A. Pike, chairman of the County Republican Central Committee.

Lodge is a brother of Henry Cabot Lodge, 1960 vice presidential nominee, and the uncle of George Cabot Lodge, currently Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate from Massachusetts.

Over 1,000 are expected to attend the countywide dinner at which all area Republican candidates will be introduced, Pike said.

Hancock Dial System Starts

NEW CUMBERLAND — An estimated 10,000 customers of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. began using the dial system after conversion from the manual type operation Sunday at 2:01 a. m.

New phone numbers consist of seven digits with the first three designating the office through which calls will be processed.

Numbers for New Cumberland phones are preceded by the digits "564." Numbers for Weirton and those on Weirton Heights up to 16th St. are "748." Those on Weirton Heights east of 16th St. are "723." The Paris exchange is "729."

In all cases, the first three numerals will be followed by four other numbers to designate the individual telephone to which the call is being placed.

Calls to East Liverpool and Steubenville may be placed by dialing the first two letters of the exchange, followed by the numbers as they are listed in the telephone directory.

Residents have been reminded to first dial the digit "1" to connect them with the long distance dialing equipment.

Child Injured In Tree Fall

A 7-year-old North Side girl is in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with a possible skull fracture suffered in a fall from a tree Saturday night.

Robin Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, 931 Orchard Grove Ave., was admitted to the hospital at 7:35 p. m. Saturday.

Also hospitalized is Mrs. Ethel Kaser, 52, of Ravenna, who fractured her left arm in a fall Saturday night at the Newell boat dock. Her condition is "fair."

Four other persons, three of them children, were treated at the hospital for injuries.

Laureen Lipps, 5, daughter of Ray Lipps of Manassas, Va., was treated for a laceration of the chin when she tumbled down steps Saturday afternoon.

Donald Click, 24, of 919 Lisbon St. was treated later Saturday night for a laceration of the upper left arm when he fell on basement steps.

Treated Sunday were David McDonald Jr., 12, son of David McDonald, 1631 Holliday St., who cut the palm of his right hand on glass, and Geraldine Peachey, 5, 1638 Alpha St., cut the third finger of her left hand on glass.

Driver Forfeits $10 After Wreck At Lisbon

LISBON — George W. Nulf Jr., 45, of R. D. 5 forfeited a $10 bond Sunday in Mayor Dean Stockman's court on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way. He was involved in a collision at the intersection of E. Lincoln Way and Jackson St. Saturday at 11 a. m.

Nulf going west in a 1953 sedan, sideswiped a 1960 sedan going east and driven by Richard L. Staggars Jr., 22, of Rogers R. D. 1.

Police estimated $250 damages to the Staggars car and $75 to the Nulf car. No one was injured.

First Settler's Grave

GREENUP, Ky. (AP) — The grave of the first settler born west of the Allegheny Mountains is at Old Town in Greenup County. Mrs. Lucy Virgin Downs was born near Uniontown, Pa., in 1769. She lived in Old Town for about 40 years before her death in 1847.

Shadyside Group To Ask Hearing With Councilmen

After a meeting scheduled Saturday morning with a city official failed to materialize, the Shadyside Ave. Citizens' Committee said today it is seeking an audience with City Council to press a plea for street improvements.

Charles Prince, chairman, said the committee was promised a meeting with an official identified only as "vice chairman of the street committee" Saturday morning at 8:45, but the session was not held when the official failed to report by 12:30 p. m.

Prince said the 12-member committee and about eight other residents waited at the 8th St. ramp before disbanding. The group then queried Safety-Service Director Robert Owen, who said he was "unaware" of any such meeting, Prince said.

The chairman explained the meeting had been arranged by phone Wednesday night. The group had been unsuccessful in an attempt to meet with City Council Monday night and had settled for the meeting Saturday morning, Prince said.

The committee is seeking to have 2,010 feet of Shadyside Ave. widened, Prince explained. Its present width in some sections is only 14 feet, he added.

County engineers worked Thursday and Friday on surveys on the part of the street outside city limits. But the county does not feel it has the responsibility of survey work on city property, and the citizen's committee is seeking an audience with City Council "as soon as possible" to further discuss the proposed repairs, Prince added.

Foul Play Ruled Out In Death At Coshocton

COSHOCOTON, Ohio (AP) — It is unlikely that foul play was involved in the death of a man whose body was discovered in the Muskingum River, authorities say. The body was found Sunday about six miles south of Coshocton.

Sheriff's deputies identified the man as Samuel C. Porter, 78, who had been missing two weeks. They said Porter, who lived in a Coshocton hotel, had about $300 on his person when found.
